DRY CHIEF MUM AS SOLONS SAY THEY HAVE WINE

Challenge of Senators Gettelman and Barker Fails to Get Rise from Haynes

SACHTJEN NOT INTERESTED

Says He Doesn't Care if the Two Legislators Have a "Whole Cellar Full"

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The public admission that two Wisconsin state senators have made stronger wine than is permitted by law has failed to get a rise from the prohibition bureau.

Commissioner Haynes said he had ordered no investigation but assumed that if inquiry was warranted, it would be made by the prohibition forces at Madison, where the statements of the two senators were made Wednesday at a senate hearing.

The challenge of the two Wisconsin legislators is similar to one presented a year ago by Representative Hill of Maryland, one of the wet leaders in congress, who announced he was making home brew with greater alcoholic content than the maximum fixed by law, and asked prohibition officials what they proposed to do about it. They secured an indictment against him but when the case came to trial in Baltimore last November he was acquitted by a jury.

NOT TROUBLED

At that time Commissioner Haynes said he had no doubt the verdict would have been against the opposite in other parts of the country and that no change would be made in enforcement regulations.

Prohibition officials generally, however, regard the home brew situation as one of the least of their troubles and a similar opinion was voiced Thursday in a statement by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

"While it is great many foreigners still make ruin wine, and some people still attempt to make beer in the kitchen, this problem has nearly solved itself," the board said. "Home brew simply was not a success. It is not today a considerable factor in the situation."

OFFICERS SILENT

Milwaukee—Federal prohibition enforcement officers refused to make a statement Thursday relative to the announcement by two state senators that they had wine and beer in their cellar. Senator Ben Gettelman of Milwaukee and Senator Barker, during a senate session Tuesday night, announced they possessed both wine and beer. Further than saying the story of the statement by the senators was "interesting reading," the enforcement department would not comment.

Herman Sachtlein, speaker of the assembly, and also state prohibition commissioner said Thursday that he was not interested in the statement of Senator Gettelman that he had a cellar full of wine and beer and was not keeping it a secret, nor the declaration of Senator Barker that his wife makes wine with some "kick in it."

It's up to the federal authorities to enforce prohibition in Wisconsin," Mr. Sachtlein said. "I am not interested."

"Mr. Sachtlein holds that possession in the home of wine and beer cannot be prosecuted in Wisconsin under the Sevenson law."

Rev. G. Kenneth McNis, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, who went the rounds New Years eve to learn just how much drinking would be done, was not so passive. He declared "the wet gang led by Gettelman and Barker are more interested in breweries and booze than in public right. The right must be maintained. John Thornhill, a member of the legislature, will deliberately violate the law of the state and nation are dangerous characters."

PRAIRIE FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOUSES IN ITS PATH

Mandan, N. D.—At least five farm homes near Selridge, 200 sheep and an undetermined amount of hay have been destroyed by a prairie fire which was sweeping toward the Black Hills before a stiff wind Thursday.

Homeowners and farmers, struggling into the towns of Sioux-co where the fire is raging, told of the damage. One man is reported to have lost his life in fighting the fire near Walker, S. D. but the report has not been verified.

John Britsch, a farmer living four miles north of Selridge, saw the fire coming and pressing his wife and children into service back fired around his home and farm buildings, burning off a strip 20 to 30 feet wide. He was able to save the buildings.

John Thornhill, Sioux-co commissioner, lost a band of 200 sheep at his ranch 16 miles east of Selridge.

All the time the prince is aboard he plans to carry a daily program of gymnastics in much the same manner as he occupies himself while at St. James' palace. His quarters in the Repulse will contain a gymnasium, bedroom, bath and smoking room.

"Any thing will do for sleeping quarters," he said, "but I want a complete gymnasium handy."

UNCOVER FRAUD IN INCOME TAX BUREAU

Two Under Arrest for Defrauding Government Out of Huge Sum

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Frederick Sutherland and an auditor in the Bureau of Internal Revenue has been arrested here in connection with alleged attempts to reduce taxes by misrepresentation.

TWO MORE HELD

New Haven, Conn.—John F. McCarron and James J. Clifford, both of Washington were held as fugitives today in connection with an alleged conspiracy in Washington to defraud the government of large sums in taxes. They have agreed to waive extradition.

Police here understood that the case under investigation involved frauds amounting to millions of dollars which are alleged to have been perpetrated through collusion with an auditor in the income tax division of the internal revenue department. Police here said McCarron and Clifford were until two years ago employees of the income tax division of the revenue department but resigned and went about the country representing themselves as "income tax experts," offering to have income taxes of large corporations cut in half if they were promised part of the proceeds of the saving.

The men, according to police apprehended officers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad with the proposition and these officials reported the matter to Washington.

Fleet Misses Planes But Smashes Surface Targets

By Associated Press
Naval Base, San Pedro, Calif.—Battered remains of target rats that Wednesday played the role of an enemy armada, 70 miles off shore from here Thursday were witnesses to the annihilating force and speed with which the combined United States fleet can strike an adversary, operating on the surface of the sea.

Sleeve targets simulating enemy air planes emerged unscathed from shrapnel hail hurled at them by the battle fleet's 44 anti-aircraft guns, according to observers, but the 600 ton cloudbursts of steel that fell on the surface targets during the six minutes of massed firing, called for practice, left no doubt that the fleet they represented would have been utterly destroyed. Although no "bombs" were dropped by "enemy" aircraft, keen interest attached to the efforts of anti-aircraft gunners to score hits on the sleeve targets. Low ed about 6,000 feet, aloft by eight balloons. According to Lieutenant Commander James H. Strong of the aircraft squadrons of the fleet, 880 shrapnel shells were fired at the eight sleeve targets without scoring a single hit.

Flag officers were reluctant to discuss the outcome of the anti-aircraft firing, pointing out that the actual results of all phases of Wednesday's air battle at both air and sea targets will be all conditions of battle were simulated to a stunningly realistic degree in the sea attack, in which 11 battleships, 7 scout cruisers, 38 destroyers, an aircraft carrier and more than 40 aircraft participated.

SECOND BREACH WITH COOLIDGE DUE IN SENATE

Fight Will Be on Confirming Woodlock, Given Recess Job on Commerce Board

DEMS OPPOSE BROTHER

Insurgents Object to Appointment's Association With Railroad Financiers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co., Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge has started another fight with the United States senate, the outcome of which will not be known till congress meets again, but in many respects the case resembles that of Charles B. Warren, twice rejected for the portfolio of attorney general.

Mr. Coolidge was twice advised by his friends in the senate that Thomas F. Woodlock of New York, could not be confirmed as member of the interstate commerce commission. The president was not shaken in his determination. The nomination did not come to a vote either before March 4, or in the special session of the senate held immediately afterwards, but the voters were there to reject it. And if the senate were to meet tomorrow it would reject Mr. Woodlock's name.

CAN'T DRAW PAY

The making of a recess appointment therefore for Mr. Woodlock has back of it unusual circumstances. The fight is not over appointments whose names were rejected by the senators when in session cannot draw pay for work they do unless a special resolution is passed to compensate them. There have been several cases of this kind and congress probably wouldn't hesitate to pay Mr. Woodlock next December even if it did reject his nomination.

Mr. Woodlock is a Democrat. The spectacle of the Democrats fighting one of their own number will, in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge, give the country an example of partisanship which will not reflect credit on the Democrats if they together with the Republicans reject the nomination.

The opposition to Mr. Woodlock as publicly expressed by the Democrats is due to the fact that they felt the south should be represented in the particular vacancy of the commission being filled. The president offered it to two men in the south who declined for private business reasons. Having tried the south and having also read the statute which does not specifically blind Mr. Coolidge to pick a man from the south, the president went ahead with the appointment of Mr. Woodlock.

FEAR VIEWS

There are other things besides southern representation involved in the controversy. Mr. Woodlock has been a financial writer in New York and has spent a good deal of time in Wall Street. The Democrats think he will naturally reflect the views of the financial and railroad world rather than the shippers and farmers. They do not openly say this but that will be the reason why the western insurgent Republicans will fight Mr. Woodlock's confirmation.

Mr. Woodlock is an authority on railroad finance. His views have been praised by the railroads. The railroads have always felt that the interstate commerce commission should contain at least a few men who understood railroad finance. There are some important financial operations pending. The interstate commerce commission has become the regulator of American railroads and approves some of the security issues made by railroads.

ESCAPED PAYROLL BANDIT IS CAPTURED AT RACINE

Chicago—Terry Moran, alleged South St. Paul payroll robber, who had escaped from custody and was re-arrested Wednesday in Racine, Thursday had the additional charge of resisting an officer placed against him for the purpose of bringing him to Chicago again.

Moran whose hand is alleged to have obtained $25,000 in the robbery, was arrested three months ago and held in the DeKalb-co jail. Two months ago while being taken from jail to court for a hearing, several of his associates intercepted an aged deputy marshal with the prisoner and after tying the marshal to a tree on a western suburban road, drove away with Moran.

Shepherd Must Tarry In Jail Without Bail

BULLETIN
Chicago—Coroner Oscar Wolff announced Thursday he would issue an order for the exhumation of the bodies of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of the dead orphan millionaire, William N. McClintock and Dr. Oscar Olson.

BULLETIN
Chicago—The presumption of innocence until the accused is found guilty, is fundamental in our law. Attorney William Scott Stewart declared Thursday in announcing that he would ask Chief Justice Hopkins of the criminal court to reconsider his decision denying bail to William D. Shepherd. If necessary the supreme court will be asked to free Shepherd on bond. Mr. Stewart said, "I feel sure that the state is wrong in claiming that an indictment raises a presumption of guilt."

The decision came a few minutes after Stewart had closed a reply to arguments made by Robert E. Crowe, states attorney. The prosecutor likened young McClintock to a "lamb being fattened for the slaughter with Shepherd in a position to take his life and profit by it." The defense counsel said Crowe's argument was "a dangerous one" and pictured Shepherd as a loving foster-father, incapable of slaying the boy he loved.

Shepherd may not be transferred to "murderer's row" in the county jail, jail officials said, but may continue to occupy cell 13 where he has been kept due to the possibility of an early release. Most of the prisoners on the "row" are young men and authorities said they feared Shepherd might be subjected to insults and even physical abuse.

SAY JUDGE HELPED THOMAS BUY AUTO

Continue Probe on Whether to Impeach English Who Gave Friend Soft Job

By Associated Press
St. Louis, Mo.—Delving into the alleged financial arrangement between Judge George Washington English of the Eastern district of Illinois and former Judge C. B. Thomas, who was appointed to lucrative positions by Judge English, the congressional committee sitting to decide whether a recommendation of impeachment shall be made Thursday heard testimony that Thomas had paid part of the purchase price of a new automobile for the federal judge.

Julius Seifert, East St. Louis, Ill., automobile salesman, testified that Judge English's old car was taken along with a check from Mr. Thomas for $1,000 in exchange for a new motor car. He told the committee that since that time, in April or May, 1921 he had seen Judge English's son driving the machine, but that he never had seen any member of the Thomas family in it.

Mrs. Grace Thayer, a former stenographer in Thomas' office Wednesday alleged that Thomas had divided money with the jurist and that Judge English was in Thomas' office almost every day.

Under a fire of questions from Frank T. O'Hare, counsel for Judge English, Mrs. Thayer reiterated that she had seen the judge receive money from Thomas.

By Associated Press
Chattanooga, Tenn.—Assurances by counsel that testimony for the defense would be completed during the session ushered in the fourth day of the trial of W. H. Bennett and his wife, Mrs. Mae Bennett, charged with the murder of Miss Augusta Hoffman, aunt of Bennett.

Bennett was excused after testifying for one hour and 20 minutes. Mrs. Bennett was to succeed her husband. Bennett entered emphatic denial to the charges against him and his wife. A skeleton which the state alleged represents the remains of Miss Hoffman was found last summer while workmen were making repairs in the basement of a house in Chattanooga, formerly occupied by the Bennett family.

CHARGES STATE BROKE PROMISE

Counties Paying 98 Per Cent Instead of One-third for Dependent Mothers

Madison—Instead of paying its just and promised share amounting to one-third of the cost of operating and maintaining the mothers' pension, the state of Wisconsin has broken faith with the counties and pays out its share about two cents on the dollar, according to a statement Wednesday night in the state senate by Senator Howard Teasdale of Sparta.

The burden of raising money for pensions now falls on the counties already staggering under their heavy tax loads, he said.

At the time Senator Teasdale made these statements, a bill sponsored by Senator A. E. Garey for old age pensions was under discussion. Senator Teasdale declared, the old age pension plan was a similar scheme for the state to pay a third of the cost leaving the balance, to be paid by counties.

The senate ordered the bill to engrossment but an attempt by Senator Garey to put it upon final passage failed through lack of two-thirds majority to suspend the rules.

After a lively debate in which administration senators led by Garey of Edgerton, sought to "mar" the beauty of the Parkway bill for licensing automobile drivers by tacking on amendment to confiscate the cars in place of penalizing drivers, the bill was ordered to engrossment and third reading without administration aid.

3 ESCAPE IN AUTO AFTER KILLING MAN IN DETROIT

By Associated Press
Detroit, Mich.—A man was shot to death shortly after midnight Thursday at Cadillac square, near one of the world's busiest street intersections and within a stone's throw of the city hall, by one of three men who escaped in an automobile. The dead man is Earl Maher, 26.

Maher, Llewellyn Brill of Windsor, Ont., and Leo Stransky, Detroit, were crossing the square when they narrowly escaped being run down by an automobile containing three men. The car stopped across the street and Maher, Brill and Stransky went over to it and demonstrated with the driver for his coarseness. In reply one of the men in the machine fired one shot, the bullet entering Maher's chest inflicting a wound from which he died before he could be taken to a hospital.

O. K. NORDMAN'S EFFORTS TO PROMOTE CATTLE SALE

By Associated Press
Madison—The state senate today gave its implied assent to the practice of Edward Nordman, director of the department of markets and other promotion of sales of Wisconsin cattle in other states, when it indefinitely postponed the Cashman bill which would have forbidden any state official from aiding or assisting in such sales promotion. The vote was 24 to 9.

Senator Cushman claimed the dairy industry was gradually being undermined through sale of Wisconsin cattle to residents of other states. He said these sales promoted in part by Mr. Nordman and others were building up competition in the dairy industry in adjoining states, and he believed the practice of state officials engaging in such promotion work should cease.

JAZZ GIRL COLLAPSES FOURTH TIME IN TRIAL

By Associated Press
San Francisco—The trial of 16-year-old Dorothy Ellingson, charged with having shot and killed her mother, Mrs. Anna Ellingson, was resumed here Thursday with attorneys for the defense and prosecution making the same painstaking selection of the jury which will try the young defendant and with precautionary measures in force to guard against a physical and mental breakdown of the girl.

The fourth collapse of the girl in court Wednesday during the third day of the trial led her attorneys to petition the court Thursday to have the girl examined by a physician every day before she is brought into court.

FRENCH BEWAIL AMERICAN RAID ON ART RELICS

Seek to Make Despoliation of French Treasures More Difficult

By Associated Press
Paris—The exodus of French historical antiquities to America is an immense danger, the Duke of Trevisse declared in a recent address before the l'Academie club. The speaker, while regretting the loss of irreplaceable ancient treasures, as a man of common sense as well as a lover of art, said he did not blame those who buy and carry off these vestiges of long ago, but that he sought to make such sales more difficult, if not impossible. "If means are not found to stop this exodus," he continued, "the towns and country sites will be deprived of their finest historic and artistic objects."

"Any property owner in France can cut his house up and sell the stones, facade, windows, roofs, ornaments and friezes, or even the iron work of the wells, without even informing the Fine Arts department, so long as it has not been classified, and very few buildings are classified," the duke said.

An object classified as of national interest, it should be explained, cannot be sold without the authorization of the fine arts department of the government.

EMBARGO REPEALED

"In 1921 a law was passed that put an embargo on all such commodities, pictures and objects of art as well as tapestries and architectural fragments, but dealers complained so of the way the law interfered with business that it was repealed, and consequently French edifices are no longer protected."

The feelings of Americans toward France are so generous and delicate that they would never buy architectural fragments if they were aware how deeply the loss of such things was regretted where the objects had been.

"Not long ago an American bought an extraordinary fine statue of the Virgin for 100,000 francs, but before delivery he asked the antiquity dealer if he could prove that this statue had not been stolen. This occurred in 1923, when the stolen statue from the St. Sauveur church was causing much talk. When the dealer admitted he could not give the required proof, the American collector preferred to cancel his purchase rather than to become an accomplice in a theft."

"Last July an appeal was made to save the Roman arches of Saint Martory, which had been bought by a dealer for 10,000 francs, and at once an American woman who has lived a long time in France, sent a check which no doubt will enable us to save this monument."

PLAN COOPERATION TO PRODUCE PURER HONEY

Lansing, Mich.—A proposal to unite the various apary inspection services of the country to cooperate with the government in the eradication of foulbrood from honey, is being considered by the American Honey Producers' league. The government would supply half the inspection funds under the plan contemplated.

B. F. Kindig, president of the league, said the prevalence of foulbrood has been the greatest menace to successful honey production.

"The proposition being considered calls for a thorough inspection and cleanup in each county," Mr. Kindig said. "Federal funds would be available when the state appropriation and the training of inspectors was satisfactory to the government. Limitations would be provided against the shipment of bees on combs into areas already inspected."

Mrs. Ashcroft's Remarkable Recovery After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Covington, Ky.—I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my household work. I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine was put in my mail-box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped other women. I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sarsaparilla and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines. —Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

BARNABAS ARRIVES FOR SCOUT TALKS

Leader of Boys' Work Will Propose Plans for Training Leaders in This Locality

Brother Barnabas, nationally known apostle of work for boys, arrived in the city Thursday morning ready for a day of addresses and conferences. He addressed a meeting of Catholic clergymen of this locality at a luncheon at noon at Conway hotel and was to address the boy scout leaders and supporters of the Fox river valley at a dinner at Hotel Northern in the evening.

Brother Barnabas is executive secretary of the boys' life bureau of the Knights of Columbus. He planned to visit Bishop Paul P. Rhode of Green Bay, head of Green Bay Catholic diocese, during an automobile trip there Thursday afternoon and also desired to visit a number of clergymen who were not to be at the meetings here.

Absolute necessity for trained leaders in order to make boy scout work successful is the theme which Brother Barnabas will present. He will propose a 30-hour training class here and plans for sending delegations of men to the Catholic training school of ten days at Notre Dame university and the school at Culver military academy this summer.

Six or eight Waupaca men interested in scout work asked permission to attend the dinner here. The request was made by the Rev. F. C. Richardson, pastor of Waupaca Methodist church, and he was invited to bring a delegation.

PLAINTIFF GETS SEEDER BUT CAN'T HAVE HAYRACK

A grain seeder and a quantity of silage in the silo on the farm of Edward and Blanche Bruss near Kaukauna, was awarded to George Lambie and a hayrack on the same farm was awarded to the Bruss's by the court in a replevin action before Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court Friday morning.

Lambie claimed the grain seeder, a hayrack and 18 feet of silage on the farm owned by Bruss through a chattel mortgage, but the defendants claimed that the property was not theirs when the mortgage was executed, but that they had purchased the farm and personal property later. The court held that the defendants was not entitled to damages from the plaintiff in the action and that the defendant must pay the court costs.

Heinemann Friday morning in municipal court on the charge of drunkenness, but the fine was revoked because the officers fees amounted to nearly $8. Johnson was picked up at Hortonville by Alfred Dunn, village marshal and at first was given his choice between the fine and five days in the county jail.

The charge was preferred by Losseylong's wife, Mrs. Anna Losseylong.

EXPLORERS FIND TOWER OF DAVID

Pottery Unearthed at Ophel Shows This Site Has Been Inhabited 5,000 Years

By Associated Press
Jerusalem—Excavations in progress for six months in Ophel, close to the area where stood the Jewish temple, seem to have revealed this as the indisputable site of the City of David, according to the Rev. J. Garraw Dunham, director of the Palestine Exploration Fund. His explorations have led him to what he is convinced is the eastern side of David's City, where he has discovered not only a wall 27 feet thick and which he has traced for 200 yards, but also a magnificent Tower of David. He is certain he has discovered the real Jebusite wall of the fort which was standing when David took it in the year 1000 B. C.

The discovery of remains of the ancient City of David is of great interest to archaeologists, who have long debated the location of the original site of ancient Jerusalem. Mr. Dunham claims that in addition to finally settling this point, he has been able to prove that the site where David's City stood has been continuously inhabited for over 5000 years, some of the pottery unearthed at Ophel belonging to the cave-dwelling period 3000 years B. C. and before. The site has yielded some hundreds of thousands of Hebrew pottery, and any number of jar-handlers with Hebrew inscriptions dedicated to Jehovah.

The tower of David, with its clean surface of white limestone, is now once more exposed to the light of day and is visible from every part of the city. The Palestine government has declared this part of the ancient wall a national monument, and the tower in being restored.

Henry Ford has a NEW IDEA

Linen is an expensive fabric now.

Ford says it can be made as cheap as cotton cloth.

Along with motor cars and other things, he is experimenting now with flax.

And he has developed a brand-new machine that eliminates the tedious hand work in getting out the valuable flax fibre.

He's talking about linen tops for cars, linen fabric for tires.

He tells all about it in this week's issue of The Country Gentleman—along with some of his ideas about farming in general.

What's the Best Thing You've Bought in the Past Year?

The Country Gentleman is offering prizes for the best 200-word answer to this question.

It may be as big a thing as a house or as small a one as a new eggbeater. It may be an automobile, a radio set, electric lights or running water.

Rotten Government

—says Herbert Quick

A month ago The Country Gentleman published an article by Herbert Quick calling attention to the general rottenness of county government, and suggesting a county manager plan to take its place.

Since then thousands of counties over the United States have started movements toward reform along these very lines.

How about your county government? Maybe it's honest, but is it efficient? Do you get your money's worth for the taxes you pay?

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

and the Political Chameleons

The former Vice-President of the United States was brought up, so he says, in a political school that believed in party loyalty.

And so he has mighty little use for those bloc politicians who are Republicans on Monday, Progressives on Tuesday and Democrats by Wednesday morning. They're stealing the chameleon's stuff!

Mr. Marshall writes regularly for The Country Gentleman. "Blocs and Party Loyalty" is his article in the April 4th issue, and his views on "The Future of the Democratic Party" are coming soon.

Pour into a pastry lined pan, bake in a moderate oven until firm and delicately browned.

JUDGE GARY--Farmer

Farming is, after all, just business, says the head of the Steel Corporation. It is subject to the same rules and regulations, the same ups and downs, the same profits and losses as any other business.

But industry has learned certain things that farming is just groping for.

"Farming Can Learn from Industry" is the title of an article by Judge Gary in the April 4th issue of The Country Gentleman.

ONLY ONE WAY TO REDUCE TAXES
If Governor Blaine believes that general property taxes in Wisconsin should be reduced, and we agree with him that they should, there is only one effective way to bring about this reduction. We are not saying it is a sound method, for there are arguments both for and against it, but if we are actually to have lower property taxes we think the plan offered by Senator Severson in the bill he has submitted as a substitute amendment to the Morris income tax reduction bill is the only way they can be secured. Mr. Severson would compel reduction by lowering the limit of the total levy that may be made legally by town and village boards and city and county authorities.

Property taxes in Wisconsin are placed at slightly more than $100,000,000 annually. Only 5 per cent of this amount goes for state purposes, the rest being raised and spent locally. It is clear, therefore, that if property taxes are too high the responsibility rests entirely upon local governing bodies. It is also true that if there is to be relief from general property taxes, it can be had only through the action of local governing bodies. The state cannot reduce these taxes.

Mr. Blaine's theory is that if income taxation is increased and mill taxes limited, the property owner will benefit, but everyone knows this would not prove to be the case. Even if there were a larger percentage return of income taxes to the counties and cities under the pending administration bill than there is under the present law, which is not the case, it would still not reduce property taxes. All local governing bodies are pushed to the limit to secure more funds. Anything additional they receive through income taxation would be simply that much more to spend. Every practical person knows they would not reduce property taxes. It is a problem with them each year of trying to get assessments or the rates up, or both. All the talk, therefore, about state legislation lowering general property taxes by increasing income taxes, or by any makeshift, is 100 per cent illusion.

Mr. Severson's plan reduces property taxes by reducing them. He charges the law empowering local bodies to levy taxes by reducing the limit of the levy. In other words, he scales down the amount they can legally levy and spend, thereby compelling them to live within a smaller revenue or to secure it by some other means. If this were done general property would actually have relief. It will never get relief in any other way. Assuming that such relief is paramount to any public requirements that might arise, Mr. Severson's bill is entirely proper and should become a law. On the other hand, if we are unwilling to assume that the relief of general property taxpayers is more important than possible public necessities, then the limit of levying should be left where it is. It is all a matter of viewpoint.

Whatever line of public policy is adopted, it should be with a frank regard for facts. It is not right to deceive the taxpayers into believing that something will be done which cannot be done. The state cannot reduce general property taxes unless it does so by reducing the limit of levy that local taxing bodies may make. Local taxing bodies can reduce taxes of their own free will if they wish to do so, but that is another matter.

FORCING PETTY GRAFT
One of the touching difficulties of congress is in persuading congressmen to accept pay to which they know they are not properly entitled. This problem has been a small one, of course, because most of the congressmen have taken pity upon the sergeant-at-arms and sacrificed their consciences in order to save him trouble. But the thing seems to have come to a head at last.

Several congressmen have agreed with the American people that the congressional salary grab, while the overworked federal judges were denied their raise, and for the term of a congress to which most of those who voted the increase had been returned, is both selfish and inappropriate in an era when the president has been asking everybody to assume his share of the burden of national economy. So these conscientious gentlemen have sought to return their checks. They think the government doesn't owe them the money.

Whereupon the comptroller general of the United States rises to complain that the law requires that everybody to whom the government thinks it owes money, and makes out a check, shall cash that check whether he likes or not; and that afterward he may make restitution if he is still of the same mind.

Ordinarily thrifty citizens will fail to see why the government, which is so eager to collect taxes people are not particularly anxious to pay, should be so very upright in forcing the funds received from those taxes upon people who do not want them. Couldn't some way be discovered, without utterly destroying the sacred structure of red tape, to accept these returned checks with thanks and debit a special account, say "conscience fund," for the return?

This isn't by any means the first time congress has had to face this vast problem. Everybody knows, or should know, that congressmen can have a secretary, or as many secretaries as will work for the lump sum handed out for that purpose—it used to be $2,000 and is now, we think, $3200. Senators with committee patronage have secretaries, assistant secretaries and messengers paid out of the federal treasury. When Congressman Carl Mapes got along without a secretary for a few months and notified the government that he didn't want the check the consternation was terrific. Months later the clerk called him up to say the check was still lying around, nobody knew what to do with it and he hoped Mr. Mapes would take it off his hands. And no wonder—with senators keeping private chauffeurs on the rolls as messengers, and retainers and stenographers miles away as holders of sinecure secretaryships: and with congressmen enrolling their wives and children.

Some way should be found to make Washington as safe for good old-fashioned honesty as it is for salary and payroll padding and other small forms of graft. The man who wants no more than he is entitled to should be permitted, surreptitiously perhaps and without publicity, to get his undesired graft back into the treasury.

PLAYING THE GAME OF BLUFF
France will not "repudiate" its debts. Oh, no. That would hurt France's credit, for future loans. The same with Italy. As they hope for future favors, they will not repudiate past obligations. Not they!

But if America were graciously to remit those debts, that would be different. An old debt forgiven does not preclude later contracting another.

These debts, they explain, cannot be paid. The money is not in sight, and the people, whose consent to taxation would be necessary, do not think they ought to be paid.

But the remission must come from us. They, to save their future credit, still "promise to pay." We, for the same purpose, must take the initiative in requesting them not to keep that promise.

All of which is merely the game of bluff preliminary to finding out, soberly, on the facts, what they can and fairly should pay, and then arranging, against the will of their people, for them to pay that, and against the will of our people for us to forgive the rest.

Laugh and the world laughs with you. Cry and people think you want to borrow some money.
Hell hath no fury like a woman when you track mud into her house.

Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician And Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE OLD LADY HYGEIA.
Somehow, I do not know just why, I have always visualized the goddess Hygeia as a youngish woman. It is shocking, therefore, to find in her signs of aging. She betrays these signs in her magazine for March. In that issue of the magazine, named after the goddess, appears an article about whooping cough which tells parents everything they should know and a thing or two they should not know about whooping cough. Dr. Beatrice R. Lovett of Durand hospital, one of the finest contagious disease hospitals in the country, and Dr. Ludvig Heiktoen, director of John McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases, are the authors of the article, though one would never believe it when reading the introductory paragraph.

"The season of sudden changes in weather, of wet feet and chilly winds, is the season for whooping cough. Although with us the year round, this annoying and occasionally serious illness is most prevalent in early spring, when the raw, damp air predisposes to nose and throat infections, while the brilliant sunshine tempts one to relax the precautions used during the winter."
That is about the blindest bit of bad health education I have ever seen in Hygeia. It is hard to believe that such good doctors could be such bad teachers. It reads for all the world like Mrs. Brady's own stuff, or a wrapper from a box of Dr. Seller's cough and cold tablets, that first paragraph. Nowhere in the article proper do the authors again refer to the alleged influence of "wet feet and chilly winds" or the "raw damp air" as factors in whooping cough. One wonders whether the doctors really took off with the first paragraph or whether it happened to be knocking around the office of Hygeia and got accidentally attached to the otherwise sensible article.

I myself lean toward this latter theory, because the editorial management of the magazine is the same as that which presides over the official organ of the American Medical association, and the editorial staff of the American Medical association's official organ is enlisted in the movement which has been initiated by the federal public health service to rehabilitate and if possible re-establish the catching cold phobia in scientific pathology. The federal public health service officers are the demon hunters who get out all kinds of reports and bulletins and every little while they issue a bulletin or something containing interesting, if not very significant, data, on the prevalence of alleged "cold" and "cough" and the cause of persons. The Journal of the American Medical association then broadcasts by remote control as it were a little bit of meaningless holism to about 90,000 weekly subscribers. Hygeia follows along with another broadcasting, and finally the versatile and indefatigable Dr. Morris Fishbein of the editorial staff of the official organ, and Hygeia whips the stuff over into form suitable for newspaper syndication, and about 60 newspapers get and fully half of them print it. Thus the great campaign moves on apace and the poor old cold delusion may be re-suscitated yet.

What Drs. Lovett and Heiktoen do say about the prevention of whooping cough is very different from the funny introductory paragraph: "The prevention of whooping cough consists in proper isolation of the patient; the usual period being about six weeks from the first paroxysm, or until all cough stops. He should be prevented from coming in contact with others; all discharges from the nose and mouth should be collected and burned or disinfected, and separate dishes and utensils should be used. During an epidemic it is wise to isolate all children having the symptoms of a common cold, since as has been said, the early period is the most infectious."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Can a person be infected by Not Infectious?
My brother has cancer of the liver, which has progressed beyond the reach of an operation done three months ago. He can live only a few months. Is there any danger that other members of the family will contract the same disease by eating at the same table, using the same bathroom and visiting him frequently? (Mrs. M. W. B.)
Answer—No, cancer is not communicable. Ordinary soap and water cleanliness will be ample protection against the risk of simple infection, such as may occur from contact with any septic discharges.

PROPERTY HAS NOT REACHED PEAK, THOMAS SAYS
Editor Post-Crescent: In the March 17th issue of your paper, I read an article entitled, "Avenue Property Near Peak," relative to a decline in real estate in Appleton. Since this article was published I have noticed a decided decline in the demand for Appleton property and I know of one instance where a loan was refused because of said article.

In the interest of Appleton and especially Appleton property owners I feel that I cannot let it go unchallenged, and request that you print this article in your paper.
Let us analyze the facts:
Twenty years ago my parents came to Appleton. A beautiful little city of about 15,000 people—large beautiful trees, well kept lawns—a good place for a traveling man to make his home. There was one paved street, College-ave, with its cobble stone blocks of ocean waves. The streets and police station was the standing joke for every theatrical troupe. The county highways were akin. Today, thanks be to past efficient administrators, we have thirty miles of hard surfaced pavements that Leonard Smith, our city planner, says cannot be surpassed by any city in the state.

Our county highway system, through the efforts of Mr. Conway and others, has placed us at the hub with concrete roads leading in from every direction. Our county, I understand, has more miles of concrete roads, in comparison of assessed valuation, than any other in the United States.
Our Lawrence college twenty years ago had a few buildings and an enrollment of 350 students. Today, between 1300 and 1500 students.
Many new industries have located here in the last twenty years. Look at the west end—the Chnr factory, the Appleton Handwood Products Co., the Knok Box factory, the Knok Lumber Co., the Weber, Zwicker and the Notage knitting factories, and many others in other sections of the city. The new industries do not compare, however, with the development and enlargement of our older establishments—the paper mills, for instance, from one and two to three shifts, and their expansion in size.

Then, too, within the last twenty years the automobile has changed from a novelty to a necessity, so that now very few families are without one.
The above are a few reasons why Appleton has increased in population to somewhere between 23,000 and 24,000 people. Yet, because of our geographical location, our county highways, our automobiles, our motor buses (I believe we have more bus lines running into Appleton than any other city of its size in the United States), our four railroad lines, have made us easily accessible to a large trading section, estimated at 90,000 people.

These things are not new, but did you ever realize what its result is on real estate? Let us consider first our business district. It starts on the east end of College-ave at the college campus. It cannot expand any further east. Going west near Richmond street the C. & N. W. railway crosses it. It is hard to expand it west of the tracks, (people do not care to cross the tracks when they are shopping). The same is true of

MATT SCHMIDT & SON
TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Appleton's, our second largest retail street, Oneida-st in a retail way stops at the Conway hotel.

We, therefore, by the impediments we have built limited ourselves to a comparatively small area.

Let us consider our residence district. The Fox river flowing from Lake Winnebago to Green Bay, flows in a north easterly direction, first striking the city near the southwest corner, and flows out near the north st corner of the city limits. The early manufacturers, to take advantage of its power built along its banks. The main line of the Northwestern railroad built parallel to the course of the river. Other manufacturers built along its tracks for transportation facilities. College-ave, the business street, was built in between. The early residents built their homes to be in close proximity to their work and the shopping district, and each generation followed suit, until now there are very few vacant lots within a radius of a mile of the center of the city. This is unusual in cities the size of Appleton and has much to do with the value of real estate.

Let us go further. In the northeast portion of the city and the southwest portions we have located our cemeteries. We can build up to them, but it is hard to gap them on account of the greater distance to work and shopping districts. The river, too, is a barrier for building. We build bridges to cross but the cold in winter, the congested traffic and the greater distance makes us go to the only other open districts, the north and west for our new buildings on account of comfort and convenience.
I have endeavored to picture what the earlier growth has been. Let us now consider what has happened in the last few years. Like all things we have felt were unusual, and looking for the cause, we blame it on the war. Before the war Appleton was in a stagnant position in regard to real estate. There was no demand for it, consequently there was no building, and yet gradually we were getting congested. The war, the curtailing of all unnecessary building,

Business property has advanced, but it took an outsider to come in and give us an idea of what it was worth. When the Kresge Co., came to Appleton they had to buy to get the location they wanted. They forced out two old established companies. They in turn bought and forced out others and so on, until now most business houses are their own landlords. Some may feel that the prices obtained were too high, and some may be. But I believe that the peak has not yet been reached. I believe the time will come when College-ave property will not be sold but will be leased for a period of 99 years as is now done in most large cities. A chain store official, whom we have been negotiating with, on a recent visit here told me that "one of the best investments a man could make was Main street property." People in some cities, he said, are willing to make rentals on a 5 per cent net basis because they feel there is only one way that prices can go and that is upward.

A good reason for this is the constant increasing in population in the United States. Secretary Hoover, in his message to President Coolidge said that we are gaining fifteen million people every ten years. Why then should business property in Appleton decrease when there is a limit to its expansion?
There is a great deal of difference in the values of College-ave property and one should not buy it blindly. Too much credit is given to certain pieces of property and not enough to others. In a city like Appleton, to be in a certain block is not as a rule necessary. For example, when the J. C. Penny Co., came to Appleton, I thought that they had gone a block too far west. The banner they displayed in their window showing they had increased their sales the highest percentage of any of the Penny stores in the state, shows the fallacy of this supposition.

Many people would like to live in Appleton if there were desirable places for rent. The advantages I have partly stated before. The opportunity to invest your money in Appleton real estate is good, both from the standpoint of safety and returns. We have not overbuilt, our prices are conservative and the demand is good. Appleton so far has not been speculating on Appleton real estate. The properties bought have been for their own private use. Why then should it decline?

Many people have thought we have had a boom. Personally I do not think it has been. To me it has been that the natural thing to happen to one of the most attractive cities in one of the most prosperous sections of the United States.
Boost your city—You have something to boost.

BERLIN HAS 1 AUTO FOR EVERY 100 INHABITANTS

By Associated Press
Berlin—Berlin now counts 37,000 automobiles. This is an increase in the city of 20 per cent in six months, and means one car to every 100 inhabitants.

The country now produces between 30,000 and 40,000 cars a year, and an increase of 100 or even 200 per cent is expected by the rational use of existing production facilities. A drawback to production is the point of view that the motor car is a luxury rather than a necessity, which is in taxation, on a single car, of about 40 per cent before it reaches the hands of the ultimate user.

COEDS IN ENGLAND LIKE MATHEMATICS

By Associated Press
London—Women students in English universities have acquired something of the independence of the American girl, and are less and less addicted to meaningless conventionalities, according to Miss Phoebe Sheavyn, director of women's studies at Manchester University. This growth of an independent spirit, she told the Daily Mail, was one of the most striking features she had observed during her 18 years at Manchester.

English girl university students, who used to come largely from the upper middle classes, are now recruited from every class of society, and the enrollment of daughters of miners and railway porters is no uncommon thing, Miss Sheavyn said. Most of the women students plan to become teachers, but many have ventured into the ranks of other professions.

C., according to Prof. Teavor Kincaid, University of Washington.

"The Roman were skilled fishermen and fly casters," said Professor Kincaid. "Although our manufactured flies may be more substantial and a trifle more beautiful, the Romans in 300 B. C. considered angling a fine art and had many magnificent specimens of flies in their collections."

He said, "are English literature, modern languages and history, that is to say, the main arts subjects. I have recently noticed the very interesting point that more girls want to take up mathematics."

LAW, MEDICINE HIT BY IRISH DIVISION

By Associated Press
Dublin—The effects of the establishment of the Free State and of the partition of Ireland into North and South are beginning to be felt in the professions of law and medicine. Hitherto attorneys have been able to practice in any part of Ireland, but henceforth they will have to choose between Northern and Southern Ireland as qualification in one does not extend to the other.

Free State physicians have formerly had a place on the British medical register, which gave them a right to practice in Great Britain and the colonies. As many Irish doctors are educated for export this was a valuable right. The Free State is now considering the setting up of a separate Free State medical register, and meanwhile the old arrangement is continued. It is hoped by legislation both in the Free State and Great Britain to effect an accommodation of the matter about which the medical profession is much concerned.

Captain Winston contends that he has a seal which could save half a dozen persons in rough water while the ordinary human life saver was wrestling with a single individual. The sea lion trained to save lives has been taught to grab men by the back of the neck in the water and swim with them to safety without injury from his jaws.

RIPARIANS MEET AT NE WILSON TO CONSIDER PROTEST

May Appeal to Washington from Decision of United States Engineer

A public meeting to take action on the unfavorable report on the Shiocton cutoff canal, made by the United States Engineers office at Milwaukee has been called by Alan H. Tripp, president of the Association for the Relief of High Water, the organization which proposed the improvement several months ago. The meeting will be held April 4 in the city hall at New London.

Mr. Tripp has announced that the association has been granted a 60-day extension, dating from March 19, during which it may appeal to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors at Washington, D. C.

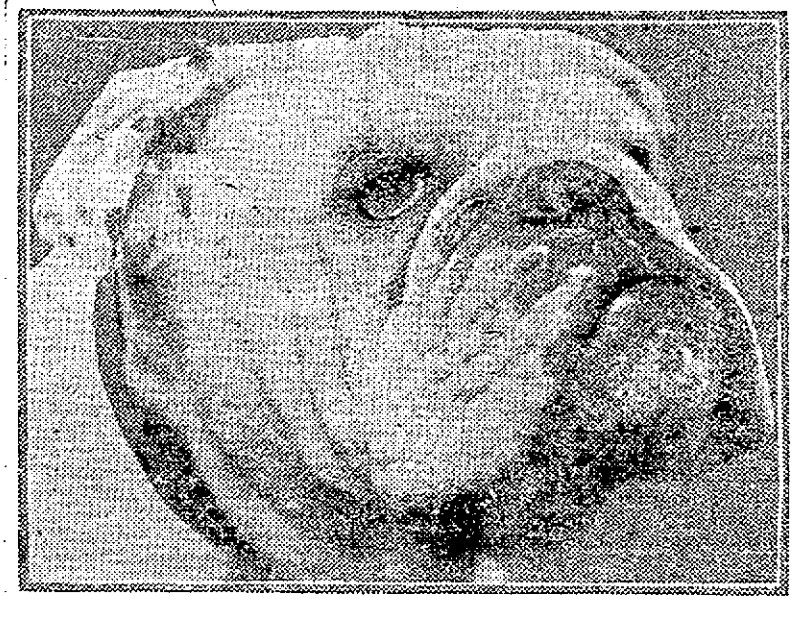

The principal reason upon which the adverse conclusion to the proposition is based is that the cost of the work is greatly in excess of benefits that could possibly be derived. The drainage and reclamation of the land subject to flood damage, the Milwaukee office declares, can best be secured by the work of the owners co-operating in drainage of levee districts.

Sentiment appears to favor an appeal from the unfavorable report of the government engineers, and if such an appeal is decided upon at the April meeting, it is likely three delegates will be sent to Washington to argue the case further.

It is Mr. Tripp's plan to have the matter laid before the county board, township organization and commercial bodies in the communities most directly affected, in the hope of securing funds to successfully prosecute the appeal.

He declared that the canal will not only benefit Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, but will bring relief to riparians living on the banks of the Wolf river from Payson lake to Shawano dam, besides bringing back into cultivation many thousands of acres of land from Shiocton to Green Bay, which today are useless on account of poor drainage.

Jim Wood's Decoys Will Be Worth Weight In Gold

As a bum investment Mark Twain's white elephant had it all over anything this glorious country that produces "one every second" has been able to show for a long time, but when James Wood, a prominent businessman of this fair city decided to import cedar from Oregon to build himself some decoys wherewith to entice and beguile the crafty but gregarious duck within range of his deadly artillery he went Mark's unfortunate hero one better—maybe two or three maybe half a dozen!

Jim must have been reading all about the one-hoss shay or the ark of the covenant. Cedar, we recall, played an important part in building both of these historical products of ancient craftsmen. Anyway, Jim heard of a particularly durable kind of cedar out in Oregon where his son George is engaged in the lumber business, and immediately he was filled with a strong and unconquerable longing to possess some duck decoys built of that remarkable wood. The Japs, known as a canny people, import cedar from Oregon cut in sizes known as Japanese squares, and Jim says to himself, says he, "if our cousins of the rising sun find it profitable to pay good money for Oregon Cedar, it ought to pay me—especially since George probably will send me a log free for nothing!"

So Jim writes his offspring a fatherly letter and among a lot of home gossip and parental advice slips in a crack about cedar and a bird in Appleton who's hankering to carve out decoys from one or two Japanese squares. George, like Barkis, is willing. But Japanese squares are hard to get just now because they were all shipped to the Japs recently. George doesn't let a little thing like that stop him, however. If his dad wants cedar from Oregon he's going to get it! Plenty of it, too! So George has a nice thick cedar cut down, saws out a certain section about 8 feet long and two feet through, loads it on a freight and ships it from Oregon to Appleton as a gift.

Now we'd like to tell how Jim got the log O. K., cut it up, let it season, had his decoys carved and painted, and with their help bagged a whole flock of mallards or teal in one trip. But no! A poor but honest reporter tells the truth when he can't avoid it, and this is one of those times. Jim hasn't got the log yet. And now he isn't sure he wants it. How come? Well, that log is green and full of sap; dry cedar doesn't weight much, but wet cedar does, especially when it comes in logs 8 feet long and 2 feet thick. The railway company, being notoriously cold and heartless, won't join George in making the gift to his dad and probably will be mean enough to insist on collecting freight charges when the "gift" arrives.

Oregon is at least 43 miles from Wisconsin, unless someone has changed the map since we went to school, and that log will tip the scales at 97 pounds and 3 ounces at least. So when Jim goes to collect his gift, he'll have to pay the railway some cash. So-me CA-SH!

We'll bet by the time those decoys are built Jim will think he's paying for a fleet of Deutschland; but anyway, a gift is a gift!

113 BUILDINGS WITHOUT NUMBERS

Postmaster Again Warns That Mail Service Will Be Cut Off on April 1

City carriers Tuesday completed their second checkup of property owners who have failed to renumber their houses under the new system, and found 113 residences and places of business still unnumbered. Two weeks ago the check revealed that 230 places lacked new numbers, but meanwhile the 117 have heeded Postmaster William Zuelhke's warning that mail service will be discontinued at places failing to comply with the new ruling by April 1.

Three Appleton mail routes are completely renumbered. The largest number of delinquents is reported in the business district. There are some about the outskirts of town, where mail is delivered by the rural carriers. It is especially important that these be numbered, because otherwise they will be listed in the directories as on rural routes. Furthermore, in order to register at the voting booths it is essential that voters be able to give their street numbers.

DEALERS MUST PAY TAX ON APRIL 1 ON STORED GAS

Beginning April 1, all gasoline dealers, whether they be grocery or hardware stores, garages, filling stations, wholesalers, distributors or manufacturers, must pay a tax of 2 cents on every gallon of gasoline they have in their possession on that day, when the new tax law goes into effect. A warning to this effect has been issued by Solomon Levitt, state treasurer, who has requested all dealers to file with him on April 1 an inventory showing the total number of gallons in their possession.

Inventory forms may be obtained from the state treasurer, or from any dealer of wholesaler of gasoline. Retailers will make this inventory and payment for this one time only, Mr. Levitt states. From then on it will be collected as near the source as possible. This time, however, the law requires that anyone who sells gasoline must pay the tax.

CATLIN CONDEMNS TAX BILL IN TALK TO BUSINESS CLUB

Appleton Lawyer Points Out Taxpayers Will Be Hit by Proposed Law

Kaukauna—A discussion of the new tax bill before the Wisconsin legislature was given by Attorney Mack Catlin of Appleton at the regular meeting of Kaukauna Advance-ment association Wednesday evening in the municipal building. Mr. Catlin explained what effect the bill will have on the individual who is already struggling under a large tax burden and although he spoke against the measure, he expressed a desire to see it become a law in order to awaken Wisconsin's people.

In beginning his talk Mr. Catlin stated it took slightly more than thirty-two million dollars to run the state government last year. Salaries of officers amount to a little less than a million a month. Mr. Catlin passed around a financial report of the state treasury which showed the state had $9,075,401.94 on deposit in Jan. 1924 while in Feb. 1925 the sum on hand totaled approximately $13,000,000. In the face of such a report the speaker declared it a mystery to him why more money should be raised by taxation to run the state affairs. In addition the state owns $75,000,000 in bonds, a large proportion of which are liberty bonds.

Provisions of the tax bill include the abolition of the mill tax, repeal of the personal property taxes and change distribution of income tax.

The new law provides that 45 per cent of the income taxes collected will be returned into the state treasury, whereas the state this year received only 10 per cent. Mr. Catlin stated the continually increasing tax burden is rapidly making Wisconsin's citizens into "tax dodgers."

JOINT INITIATION OF FORESTER CLASS

Kaukauna—Sunday will be a big day for the two Kaukauna courts. Catholic and Protestant, when a class of 60 candidates will be received into membership at a joint initiation. The initiation of the group marks the close of the work of J. E. Racine, state organizer, who has been in this city for several weeks. There are several applicants who will be unable to receive the initiation Sunday and they will be retained as a nucleus for another large class which will be secured in the next six months.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday morning members of St. Mary's court, No. 118 and candidates will meet in south side Forester hall and will march to Holy Cross hall on the north side where they will be joined by members and candidates of Holy Cross court No. 309. Two two groups will attend Holy Cross church at 8 o'clock and will approach communion in a body. Soldier and sailor members in uniform will escort the south side group over the river.

Initiation ceremonies will take place at 1 o'clock in the afternoon in Elk hall. The work will be exemplified by the state court team of Milwaukee. Intermission will be taken at 4:30 and the Foresters will again assemble with their ladies at 6 o'clock at a banquet in the hall. Music will be furnished by the Electric City orchestra. Talks are to be given by officers of the two orders.

At 8 o'clock a farce comedy due in three acts will be presented by John Creveland and Joseph Schumacher of DePere.

K. C. TO SPONSOR SPELLING CONTEST

Villages and small cities around Kaukauna which have members belonging to the local council will be invited to take part. Preliminary plans for the event were made at the K. The spelling bee is said to be coming back into favor as an educational and interesting pastime and the Knights of Columbus plan to make the most of the occasion. Organization Formed of Raw Material Last Fall Now Numbers 36 Members

New London—The Lincoln school band made its first official appearance in public Tuesday noon, when it rendered a concert before the assembly of the local high school. The band was organized last fall by Mr. Alfred Schumann band and orchestra director, and since then has made startling advancement. Neither river is exceptionally high, and not as high as in the majority of previous years, which unless heavy rains set in, eliminates all danger of a flood this year.

Stop Night Coughing This Simple Way

People who have persistent, annoying coughing spells at night, and who through loss of valuable sleep are weakening their systems and laying themselves open to dangerous infections, can stop their distressing trouble promptly by a very simple treatment. Thousands who have hardly been able to rest at all for coughing, have gotten their full night's sleep the very first time they tried it.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring and hold it to your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it gently loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is that you usually sleep as soundly as a babe the very first night, and the entire cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. It is on sale at all good druggists. Ask for

STAGE And SCREEN

HIGH WATER MARK OF DARE DEVILTY

"The Cowboy Houdini" is a new sobriquet to which Buck Jones could honestly lay claim after his amazing performance in "The Desert Outlaw," his newest William Fox starring vehicle, which comes to the New Bijou Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Buck for the first time attempts, and gets away with, a super stunt which he might well challenge Houdini, the world famed handkerchief king, to duplicate.

He and murder. The howling mob beset him as he has saved from a runaway stage coach Buck Jones, as Sam Langdon, prospector hero mounted on his horse "Silver," and handcuffed is in the hands of the Sheriff. The charge is highway robbery.

Double crossed by the lovely but wants to lynch him.

Still handcuffed Buck charges the Sheriff and mob, and breaks through. Still handcuffed he leaps from his horse to the last car of a moving train.

Still handcuffed, he crawls under the car and peaches precariously on a brake beam. Then he frees himself from the handcuffs by holding them against the car wheel till they're cut in two.

After this exploit, Buck Jones must rank as the 'handkerchief king of the cowboys' with due credit to his wonderful horse "Silver" through whose intelligent cooperation alone this most novel ingenious and daring stunt was made possible.

ALICE JOYCE—PERCY MARMONT IN "DADDY'S GONE A-HUNTING"

Alice Joyce and Percy Marmont will be seen at the Elite Theatre to day and tomorrow in Frank Borzage's film version of "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," the famous stage play by Zoe Akins.

This pictureization holding close to the original plot of the drama which brought new fame to Margjore Rambeau behind the footlights is the first of a series of pictures Borzage is to produce for Metro Goldwyn-Mayer.

It is the story of an artist's search for freedom and happiness and has been brought to the screen with a combination of the drab life of New York's cheap Harlem flats and the brilliant picturesque luxury of Fifth Avenue and Paris.

Mr. Marmont is Italian the artist, and Alice Joyce makes Edith her second fortune since returning to motion pictures one of the finest characterizations of her distinguished career.

career Virginia Marshall plays Janet their daughter, the love for whom finally brings Juliet to a realization that Edith's worship is the most wonderful emotion and most priceless thing in his life.

Fred Steining, noted comedian plays Oscar, a French artist, and Helena d'Alay, former leading lady to Rudolph Valentino is Olga, a Russian pianist in this new Borzage picture. Other members of a remarkable cast are Holmes Herbert, Edythe Chapman, Martha Mattox, James B. Lewis and James MacCallister.

The film was adopted from Zoe Akins' play by Kenneth B. Clarke and Chester A. Lyons was in charge of photography.

FISKE O'HARA
Fiske O'Hara will be the attraction at the Appleton Theatre Wednesday, April 1 "The Big Mogul" is his play this season. Pat Clary will play opposite him. These popular players made a decided hit in Appleton last year when they appeared in "The Pick of Heats."

Major orders are being received now, and the seat sale Mr. O'Hara comes direct from a three months' Chicago run.

O'Hara has shown courage in departing from the conventional lush drama and in depicting a newly rich plumber who fights business interests in the modern melodrama which DeWitt Newing has contrived and in so doing he not only has possessed himself of the best written play in which he has appeared for several years but he is acting with a force.

Miss Pat Clary second only to the star himself in the favor of O'Hara audiences will again play opposite Mr. O'Hara.

Mr. O'Hara portrays the character of a plumber whose education has not been of the best. He becomes immensely wealthy through inheriting a large fortune and immediately starts for New York to show them how to do things. He does not succeed just at first but becomes involved in a wild stock scheme.

It looks as if he will lose his entire fortune when by a clever trick which is devised by his stenographer he turns the tables and not only wins his fortune back but also captures the young lady. As always, Patricia Clary wins you by the quiet certainty of her acting. You will find her as the rich daughter masquerading as a stenographer thus providing opportunity for the wearing of attractive gowns. Miss Clary has the touch of scoring every point without seeming to do so resourcefully and experienced actress.

Secure your seats early.

ERICKSON, FAMED DAIRY FARMER, TURNS TO FOXES

Waukegan—John Erickson, famous breeder of Holstein Friesian cattle has turned from raising cows to raising silver foxes.

On a ranch near Oshkosh Mr. Erickson now devotes his entire time to the fox business. His place is considered one of the most modern in the United States of Canada.

Mr. Erickson's decision to adopt fox raising will have far reaching influence, it is believed. He is well known in the dairy industry, where he was long recognized as one of the most constructive breeders in the world. Dams and sires from his breeding stocks are foundations of the best herds now in America. The Murphy farms, at Egg Harbor, own a number of the finest animals ever bred by Erickson.

Cattle buyers from almost every part of the globe were present when the Erickson herd was disposed of at public sale last summer. The 86 pure bred sold for an average price of $1,139, the highest ever recorded for a herd of that size. One cow brought $6,800 while Wisconsin Friesians went to the Murphy farms for $6,500.

A loss of $100,000 was not submitted to an operation this morning.

MORE BEAUTIES CLIMB INTO WORLD'S LIMELIGHT

Fun for Princess Meyerhoff Continental beauty ended when the searchers attended a theater. There on the stage they saw the noblewoman playing as Stella Arlen, and she informed them she would continue her stage career.

Queenie Thomas, who has been delighting stage audiences in London with her beauty, plans to come to America if she can get a contract. London critics call her the most beautiful English actress.

Mrs. Preston B. Zevely, secretary of the Eleanor Duse Monument Commission, is directing the movement to erect a memorial to the great Italian tragedienne in New York.

Dorothy Seastrom has a right to be thrilled over "strong" blond-haired, blue-eyed exponents" at that. Her home was in Norway before she came here to take beauty honors from 14 other girls seeking to be named the perfect 1925 model.

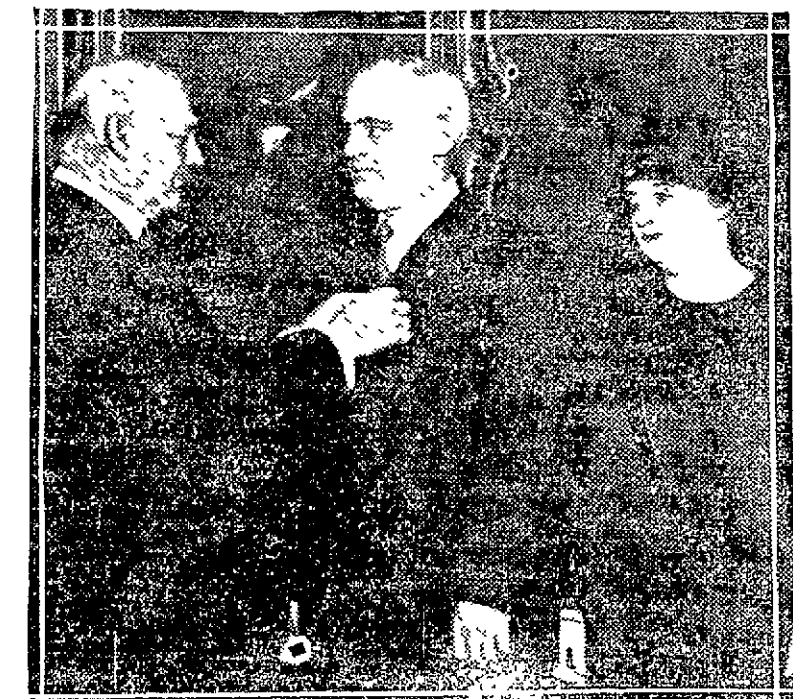

"Whiskers! Sheiks must wear them to win success," declares Arthur Ponsonby, labor member of the British Parliament shown in lower center. With him are three artistically treated Smith Brothers: Charles Ray Smith, D. Fabbanks Smith and Thomas Meichan Smith, each very popular with the girls.

King Gustaf of Sweden puts on his felt boots and heavy old overcoat and braves the cold like any commoner. His picture shows him in the royal box of the Stockholm stadium at a winter sport carnival.

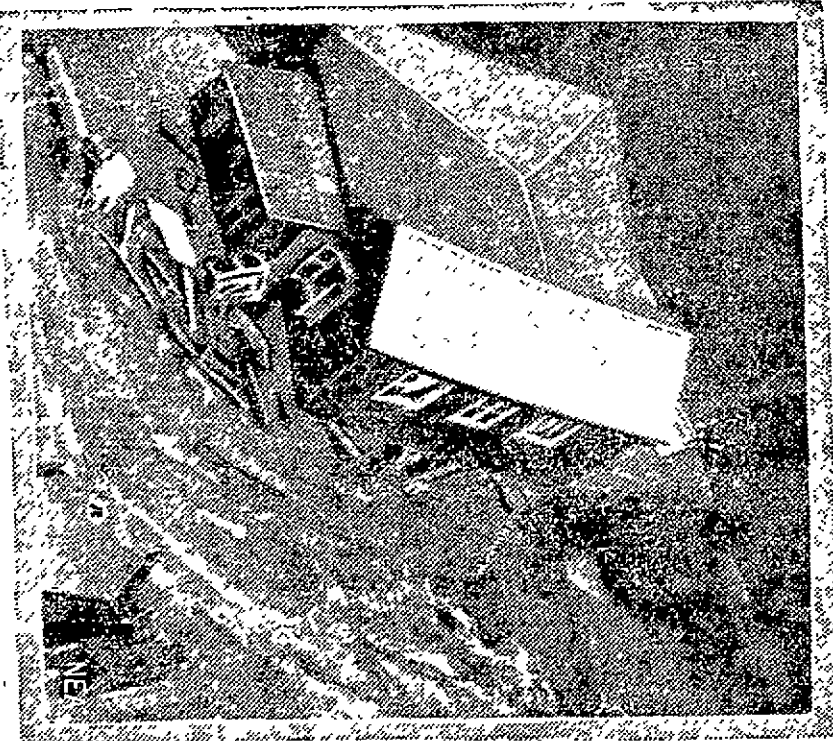

In a new form of unwritten law, Mile Stanislawski Uminski, young Polish actress, appearing before a Paris court on a charge of murdering her fiance, was freed on the ground that her victim, suffering from an incurable disease, had begged her to kill him to end his sufferings.

Senator R. W. Means of Colorado is shown being given the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry in action in the Spanish-American War. Left to right, Secretary of War Weeks, Senator Means and Mrs. Means.

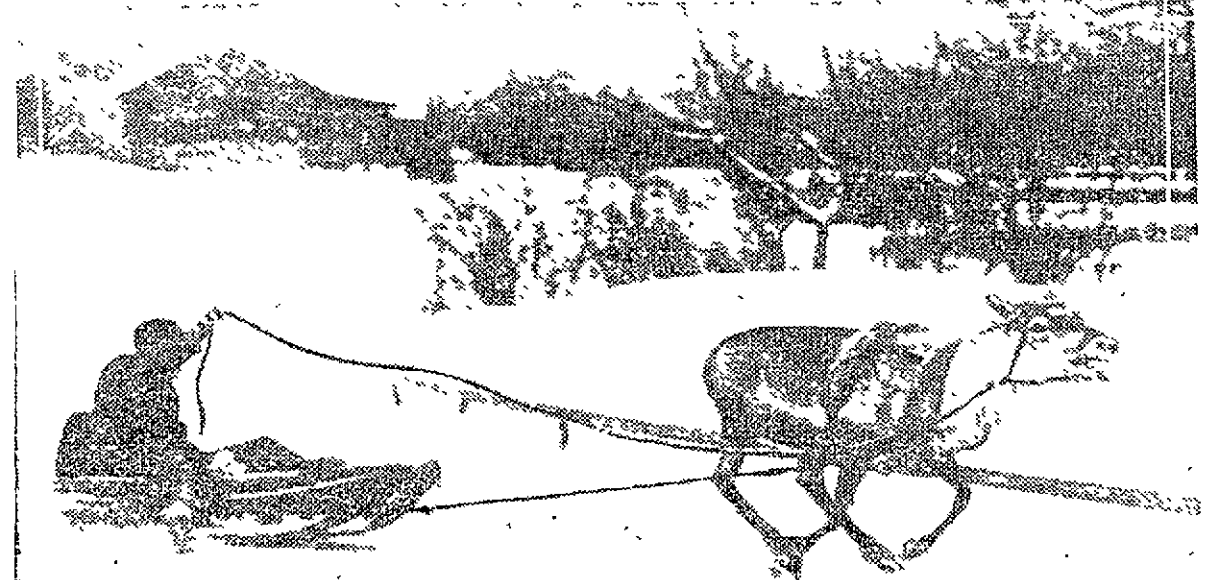

PROTEST TO WHITE FATHER—Indian chiefs of the Yakima tribe of the state of Washington have journeyed there to protest to the Great White Father that they have been deprived of hunting rights on their own reservation rights guaranteed to them under the treaty of 1855. Their own Coolidge is shown between two of the chiefs on their visit to the White House. Six Bill Palmer (left) and Youkosh Owhi.

An automotive two-car train has been installed on the Colo division of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway. Above is shown the engine, which is of six cylinders, which has also baggage, mail and express compartments.

After searching for each other for nearly 20 years, Mrs. Menno Hunsberger, left, and Mrs. John Schumacher, sisters, were reunited to find they had lived for years in the same block in Grand Rapids, Mich. Their husbands have been friends a long time.

COUNCIL VOTES $6,981 TO BUY STREET SWEEPER

ALDERMEN REFUSE TO MAKE CHANGES IN ZONING ORDINANCE

Planning Commission Objection Is Sustained by Common Council

Appleton will have a new $6,981 street sweeper this spring to keep up its reputation as one of the cleanest cities in the United States. The city council Wednesday night voted to purchase an Elgin street sweeping machine, after opening two bids. The council accepted the Elgin company bid in preference to an offer from the Osterman Manufacturing Co., despite the objection of Aldermen Mike Stenbauer of the First ward and Al Steinhauer favored the purchase of a sweeper, but urged the council to take at least a week to consider the matter and review the merits of the two sweepers.

After returning from a session of the committee of the whole the council accepted landscape gardening plans made by Donald Bushy for improvement at Roosevelt and Wilson Junior high schools.

On the recommendation of the planning commission the council refused to amend the zoning ordinance to declare block 78 on E. College Ave. in the commercial district. The council also withheld approval of the plan to replat a road through the block running from east to west.

A petition signed by 15 taxpayers for a sewer in Weimar-st was referred to the street and bridge committee, while an objection to paying Ida-st and a request by Charles Hopfensperger for permission to extend the basement of his meat market on W. College-ave under the alley behind the market was referred to the committee of the whole.

The council approved a request to install a 250-candle-power electric light at the intersection of Levi and Circle-sts. and adopted plans for installation of catchbasins on the corners of Summer and Loralists and Fairview and Spring-sts.

Sewer diggers licenses were granted to John Kuehner and Theodore Niles. The withdrawal of an application of permit by John Wagner to open a soft drink parlor on Richmond-st was approved by the council. Al Peck's request for a license to open the Richmond-st soft drink parlor was referred to the police and license committee.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM PLAYS PRACTICE GAME AT FONDY

A team composed of several of the players who will represent Appleton in the state Y. M. C. A. volleyball tournament here in April, will meet the Fondy du Lac team in a practice game in that city Thursday night. This Fondy team will represent the Fountain City at the state meet. The locals wallowed the Fondy crew here recently. While Appleton always has trimmed the Fondy volleyballers here, the local team has been able to take only one set from the Red and White in their several invasions of Fondy du Lac, and that was in a state tournament.

Members of the local team are F. C. Reuter, James Murray, Fred Agrell, F. C. Schlitz, John Neller, Guy Barlow, Alfred Bradford, A. C. Remley and R. W. Getschew.

"BUGOLOGISTS" IS NAME OF NATURE STUDY CLUB

"Bugologists," a recently formed nature study club of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A., will hold a meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening. The club decided on the name at informal meetings during the week.

Charter members are Paul Renner, Russel Denvers, Carleton Roth, Alfred Gehheim, Gilbert Menzner, Peter Thiede, Karl Ek, Tad Meyer, William Foote, William Scott, Sam Gonswein and Desmond Schaefer. Several more will be admitted after the group is completely organized and officers have been elected. Lloyd Townsend, Lawrence sophomore and leader of the Avenue Newsies, is in charge of the club.

HOLD DRESS REHEARSAL FOR "PASSION PLAY"

There will be dress rehearsal Friday night in St. Joseph hall for "The Passion Play," which the congregation of St. Joseph church will present Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in St. Joseph hall under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baunister. The orchestra will rehearse with the players on Friday night.

Scenery and other effects have been completed for the second annual presentation of the play. They are more elaborate this year. It is said.

A cast of 150 persons, drawing from the best of Appleton's talent, will interpret the lines.

FINISH ORGANIZING OF RESERVE CHAPTER TONIGHT

Fox River Valley Association of Organized Reserved Officers will be the name proposed for adoption by reserve army officers, of this county and Neenah-Menasha at a meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms. The officers were elected at a recent preliminary meeting and application will be made for a charter in the national organization. A constitution and by-laws also will be submitted for adoption, prepared by a committee consisting of Alfred Bradford, W. W. Plank and Stanley Staudt. P. O. Keltcher is president of the association.

PUBLIC INVITED TO MUSICAL PROGRAM

There will be no charge for the concert which the combined glee clubs of Appleton high school and the orchestra will give Friday night in Lawrence Memorial chapel under the direction of Carl McKee, head of the music department. This is one of the four projects that the department is sponsoring this year and is public so that Appleton people may see what has been accomplished during the year.

The two glee clubs, the boys and the girls are larger than usual this year and have been doing excellent work. This is the first time the school has had a boys glee club for in past years the two groups have been combined or there has only been a girls organization.

The orchestra is large and has made splendid progress. There is a large variety of instruments.

A large number of the high school students are taking part in the concert and the music departments expect that a record crowd will attend the concert Friday night.

RANK AND FILE ARE FORGETTING ABOUT STORM ZONE NEEDS

One Family Gives About Half of $668 Received for Sufferers to Date

With the total at $668 Thursday noon Outagamie-co was making the poorest showing of any time that it had been called upon for relief in a big disaster and it is feared that when the time of the campaign for funds for the Illinois and Indiana tornado sufferers closes Monday night local people will have given only about a thousand dollars or about a cents a person.

The general public appears to be cold to the proposition of giving for women and children who are homeless. The $668 received to date represents only a small number of givers. Members of one family have given more than half of the amount, or $378 and there were two or three other large checks. This leaves only a small total that has been given otherwise and only one or two people in the entire county outside of Appleton have been on that list.

COLLECTION TAKEN

Bretschneider Furniture Co. is the first business concern to make a concerted effort to help a subscription list was passed among the employees, who gave a dollar apiece and David Bretschneider, head of the company then donated an amount equal to what all the others had presented. The chamber of commerce, which is in charge of the campaign, suggests that others do likewise.

No greater work of mercy has been open to the people of the county so near home, the chamber of commerce says and haste is urged because dollars rushed to the communities will be of much more service now than a week later. One check for $500 was sent Wednesday to the Red Cross headquarters and another will go forward as soon as an additional $500 is raised.

HASTE CHECKS

Checks are to be made payable to "Tornado Relief Fund." Gifts are welcome whether they are only a few cents, a dollar, five, ten or more. Organizations are asked to take up the cause and help. Money is to be deposited with the chamber of commerce, the Post-Crescent or any of the banks.

Those who contributed since publication of the list Wednesday are:

H. M. Marshall, M. C., David Bretschneider, Frank Glasner, Frank Hoppy, Edward Conney, H. G. R. O. Baunert, R. Walker, W. Masse, George Bussing, August Tretlin and other Bretschneider employees.

ELABORATE GOWN DISPLAY AT GEENEN FASHION SHOW

New styles for large women were viewed by large groups of women who attend the fashion exhibit at Geenen's store Thursday morning and afternoon. Coats, dresses and ensemble costumes in large sizes were worn by living models. The showing also included many special garments sent here for the occasion.

After the exhibit the fashion experts from New York, who conducted the show, conferred with any women desiring their services in the selection of becoming garments.

Women were privileged to examine the garments after and at the showing. The models paraded down a wide aisle in the ready-to-wear department, while chairs were arranged for the women who attended.

FISH COMMITTEE GETS WILD LIFE REFUGE BILL

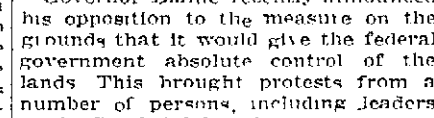

Madison—The bill granting the federal government permission to acquire lands in the Mississippi bottoms adjoining Wisconsin to establish a wild life and fish refuge has been transferred from the joint finance committee of the legislature to the assembly committee on fish and game.

Governor Blaine recently announced his opposition to the measure on the grounds that it would give the federal government absolute control of the lands. This brought protests from a number of persons, including leaders in the Izank Walton league.

Assemblyman Munier asked with drawal of the bill from the finance committee and its reference again to the fish and game committee, which previously had considered it favorably.

He said one objection to the bill was the provision for distribution of fish from the refuge and he thought it properly belonged in the fish and game body.

Chairman Nelson of the assembly finance committee objected, saying another hearing had been arranged for the proposal in his body, but the Munier motion carried.

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

DEPUTATION TEAM WILL CONDUCT NEENAH SERVICE

Preliminary plans for conducting the evening service of the Congregational church at Neenah on April 19, were made by the H. Y. club deputation team at the meeting of the club Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The team, which is composed of six members, led by Edward Blessman, club president, has conducted services at four Appleton churches and the Neenah trip will be the first out of town work for the group since last year, when Green Bay, Menasha and Oshkosh were visited.

Lawrence Bohon, basketball captain, read a challenge from Green Bay H. Y. club for a game to be played here in the near future and plans were made to stage the tilt. Victor Weinlauf and Clarence Weiss, heads of the committee for the all-boys' division entertainment, reported that the club will put on an entertainment for boys of the Y. M. C. ## KIWANIANS FROLIC ON FIRST BIRTHDAY

Luncheon Club Members Invite Ladies to Anniversary Party

The first annual banquet of Appleton Kiwanis club, celebrating the first anniversary of the organization, was held in the crystal room of the Croy way hotel Wednesday night. Ladies were invited and the party was attended by about 55 persons.

Entertainment was provided by between courses of the dinner. Little birthday cakes, boasting a candle apiece, decorated the tables, and for a short period all lights were turned out, with the exception of the lighted candles.

L. L. Johns, president of the club acted as toastmaster. The program opened with the singing of America by the club, accompanied by an orchestra. This was followed by an invocation delivered by Dr. John H. Denvers, and an introduction by Clyde O. Davis. A trio composed by Prof. and Mrs. F. H. Jobe and Joseph Zieckler played "Serenade". Two little girls, Martha Mae Catlin and Beatrice Rosser, danced two numbers. Miss Catlin danced the "Highland Fling" and Miss Rosser a novelty dance. Vocal numbers were sung by George C. Nixon, Fred Trezise and Howard Nusschucker.

35 SCOUTS SUCCEED
IN TESTS PASSING
THEM TO NEW RANK

Hillard Prange Becomes Star
Scout Through Award of Several Merit Badges

Menasha — Thirty-five boy scouts were passed to higher rank and one boy became a star scout, next to the highest grade he can reach, at the session of the Menasha district court of honor at the city hall Wednesday evening. The court consists of W. C. Friedland, chairman, John Eckrich, and W. C. Lloyd.

Three of the scouts also took merit badge tests. William C. Kurtz passed two examinations on merit badge subjects, receiving emblems for scholarship and swimming. Hilbert Prange passed in printing and scholarship and John Strange in swimming. Kurtz and Strange belong to troop 3 and Prange to troop 8. Prange thus completes the ten tests in academic and scout subjects by which he becomes a star scout. This is next to eagle scout, the highest rank obtainable.

Nine tenderfoot scouts of the new troop 8, St. Mary church, were reviewed. They were Joseph Robinson, Ekernon Schmitzer, Edward McGilgan, Arthur Snyder, Philip Hahl, Franklin Fabrenkrug, John Oake, Morris Toennessen and Joseph Laemmle.

These passing to the rank of first class scout were Joseph Walbrun and Andrew Marx of troop 6 and John Strange and Edmund Webster of troop 8. The former two boys will become assistant scoutmasters of their troop. Twenty-two were successful in tests making them second class scouts.

Examiners were Harry Mory, C. W. Walker, Earl Gordon and P. O. Keicher, executive of Valley county, Boy Scouts of America. This was one of the largest sessions the court of honor has held and the next session probably will be made the occasion of special ceremonies.

URGES TRAINING
FOR PARENTHOOD

Parent-Teacher Association
Launches Movement to Improve Childhood

By Associated Press
Valparaiso, Ind. — A nation-wide movement in training for parenthood has been launched by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers' associations and The Children's Foundation here. The foundation's materials and plans for training in parenthood and a study of the nature, well being and care of children will be used by the association as the basis for its work.

Mrs. M. W. Reeve of Philadelphia, president of the Parent-Teachers' association, and Lewis B. Myers of the foundation, in announcing the movement, declared that through the parent-teacher groups they would "set about at once to organize classes which would enter upon this vital study."

"Such a movement comes as a most timely aid to all who are entrusted with the care of children," said the announcement. "The profession of parenthood carries with it high privileges and deep joys but it also entails grave responsibilities and unnumbered perils. These latter we hope to explain and teach away by conclusions drawn from a survey of present-day knowledge of childhood and youth in which practical answers are given to the questions concerning the bodies, minds and morals of children."

"The fact that the movement is being organized doubtless will enlist the interest of many who have not hitherto given serious attention to child problems. With them, we will have the staff of experts which contributed to the findings of the foundation in its survey."

LONDON PARK SEATS
GROUPED BY TWO'S

By Associated Press
London — Remittance of money long owed to various departments of the British government is not unusual, but M. W. Shanley, the chair king of London, who has placed thousands of chairs about the city's parks, which he rents for two pence each, has received from America his first conscience money, a penny which an unknown American forgot to pay for the rent of a Hyde Park chair ten years ago. The penny and the letter have been preserved as prize souvenirs.

Mr. Shanley's business is the only one of its kind in England, and was established by his father 80 years ago. Shanley now owns more than 150,000 chairs and employs a large force of men to go about collecting the tuppenny rental. Receipt tickets are given, and the occupants may retain the chair the entire day for his two pence.

Most of the chairs are placed in groups of two, but it was an eye for business, as a 2-cent to befriend lovers, that dictated the grouping, according to Mr. Shanley. He noticed that people generally went about in twos, and that groups of three or four were much in the minority. So he arranged his chairs accordingly.

ENGLISHMAN LAUDS U. S.
JOURNALISM STANDARDS

By Associated Press
London — Sir Frederick M. Jones, chairman of Reuters, the British news agency, in a recent letter to The Spectator, urging support of the journalism courses of the University of London pays a warm tribute to the educational standards of American journalism.

"During each of my visits to the United States," wrote Sir Frederick, who recently visited America on a tour around the world, "I have been impressed by the high educational standard of young American journalists. They are recruited, I find, in increasing numbers from the several universities which devote themselves, in part, to the training of men for newspaper work."

"The fruitful experience of these institutions justifies the progressive and enlightened journalistic policy of the University of London which, over here, has been the center in this as in many other educational activities."

YOUNG MEN URGED TO SPEND VACATION AT CITIZEN CAMP

County Will Help Sixth Corps Area Keep Lead in Enrollments for Camp Custer

Outagamie co is planning to do its share to keep the Sixth Corps area in the lead in recruiting for the citizens military training camp this summer at Camp Custer, Mich. Word received by Lieut. Alfred Bradford, county recruiting chairman, indicates that the Sixth Corps area, which takes in Wisconsin, is leading all others in the United States. It has 33 per cent of the number of young men allotted as its quota.

Enrollments are expected to come in here in such numbers that the quota will be exceeded and Lieut. Bradford therefore is urging those interested in the camp to make their choice early. Registration blanks may be obtained from Lieut. Bradford at his office in Hydeburg or from Lieut. P. O. Kicher, boy scout office, or Lieut. W. W. Frank at the Fair store.

Camp Custer, where the Outagamie-co boys will spend the period from July 23 to Aug. 21, will be in charge of Brig. Gen. Benjamin A. Poore this summer. There will be 3,900 young men of 17 to 24 years taking the training. The course provide 30 days of wholesome outdoor life. It is a vacation within reach of everybody because the government pays all expenses of transportation to and from camp, food while at camp, uniforms, lodging and medical attention. At the end of the camp does not require enlistment in the army or any promise to serve in the army at any time. It gives the young man the same physical upbuilding that military training did for those who served in the World war.

BOAT OWNERS BUSY WHILE FOX RIVER IS DRAINED

Old timers along the river front were shunted back to the old days on Sunday when the lower Fox was drained about three feet for the most of the day, probably for repairs at one of the mills. The old rivermen remembered "way back when" the river was as clean as any woodland stream. There now is about 30 inches of oily and greasy slime on the bottom caused by the sewerage and waste from the mills.

The low water helped the men who work along the river bank to find wrenches and other tools which they had lost in the stream months ago and navigators were able to check up and locate the various dangerous rocks.

A Story Without Words

"Tennessee Yankee" Gets Longworth's Job On Floor

HARRY B. HUNT
Washington—A Tennessee Yankee, John Quillen Tilson by name, will succeed Nicholas Longworth as majority floor leader in the House when the sixty-ninth Congress convenes next fall.

A Tennessee mountaineer by birth, but a Yankee by adoption and a product of Old Eli Yale in education, Tilson presents a sort of composite nationalism that should enable him to unite the Republicans of north and south, highbrow and lowbrow, behind party measures in the next Congress.

Tilson was born and reared in a log mansion on a farm near Clearbrook, Tenn. The phrase "log mansion" may seem paradoxical, as does that of "Tennessee Yankee" but no other terms seem to fit. He is a sort of paradoxical fellow.

While Tilson's boyhood home was made of logs it wasn't a log cabin. It was a big spacious, roomy residence—the biggest place for miles around—where Squire Tilson, the future congressman's father, lived and entertained in simple but feudal style.

Getting an education was not an easy thing for Tennessee mountain boys in the days following the Civil War. There were few elementary schools in the country districts, and secondary schools were practically unknown.

Sending children away to private schools or colleges was an unheard of thing.

John walked three miles to and from school each day to get his "Three R's." And at the age of 20 he stuck out from the farm to get more "learning."

He paused for a while at a little Tennessee school now known as Carson & Newman College. There he worked while he studied, saving money to pay his way "north," for he had determined to try his talents at one of the big eastern universities.

Then Yale, and six years of "digging" during which time he divided his energies between his studies and his work in the circulation department of a local newspaper.

Graduation found him happy but broke. Then five back to Tennessee to help his father on the farm.

As a Tennessee Yankee Tilson has been looked on as an outsider by the professional Connecticut Yankees, who have sought to run Nutmeg state politics.

Always backing the regular organization headed by Henry Roraback, Connecticut's U. S. Representative, Tilson nevertheless managed to break into state politics.

In 1908 he won the fight for con-

RAZE LANDMARK TO BUILD NEW STORE

Sylvester and Nielson Plan Immediate Reconstruction of Building

One of Appleton's oldest landmarks on E. College ave will be razed to make room for a more modern building when Sylvester and Nielson begin remodeling their stationery and other supply store. The building, known to pioneers as the Ruhlender building, has been standing for at least 50 years and under the ravages of time has begun to sag so bad that the proprietors, who planned to build next year, are forced to undertake alterations at once.

Twenty years ago it was occupied by August Ruhlender who dealt in real estate and insurance, and his wife conducted a millinery shop there. Since that time it has been known as the Ruhlender building, although Mr. Ruhlender died two years ago.

Sylvester and Nielson, the present owners, recently rebuilt the rear end of the building, extending it to make room for larger stocks. They contemplated no further changes this year, but circumstances have forced them to advance their plans. They will erect a new two story front, with double shop windows. Business will be carried on as usual during the construction of the new building.

Twenty years ago it was occupied by August Ruhlender who dealt in real estate and insurance, and his wife conducted a millinery shop there. Since that time it has been known as the Ruhlender building, although Mr. Ruhlender died two years ago.

Sylvester and Nielson, the present owners, recently rebuilt the rear end of the building, extending it to make room for larger stocks. They contemplated no further changes this year, but circumstances have forced them to advance their plans. They will erect a new two story front, with double shop windows. Business will be carried on as usual during the construction of the new building.

WORT HELPS SHIPPERS PUSH COMPROMISE RATES

R. G. Wort, traffic adviser of the chamber of commerce, attended the meeting Wednesday in Chicago where shippers of this locality and other parts of the middlewest made counter proposals to those advanced by the railroads for increases in rates.

Mr. Wort also attended a hearing in Chicago Tuesday on rates that discriminated against local concerns on some of the commodities manufactured here.

Lay Roofs that won't Rot or Rust

Leaky roofs are a big trial. Every rain means worry about hard won crops and expensive implements. Then, too, there is the frequent trouble and expense of patching.

Our advice is—replace your worn-out old roofs with Barrett Roll Roofings.

Rugged and durable—they insure lasting weather-tight protection—give that well-kept look to barn, shed, garage or chicken house. Soundly economical, they're easy and inexpensive to lay—never rot or rust—never need painting.

Barrett ROOFINGS

Finally, Barrett Roll Roofings are fire-safe—proof against flying sparks and embers.

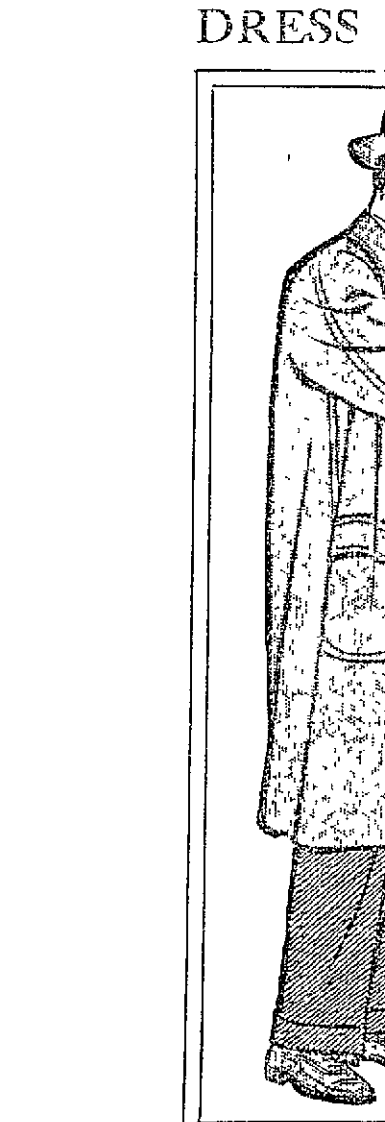

Call at this store and let us show you the different types of Barrett Roofings, Roll and Shingles. You'll find the prices surprisingly reasonable.

"The Cost of Coffee"

1 1/2c per cup is only a small part of the cost of the meal.

We all know that there has been an advance in the price of coffee. Like everything else, it costs more now than it used to. But even at that, it costs you comparatively less than most of the other good things on your table.

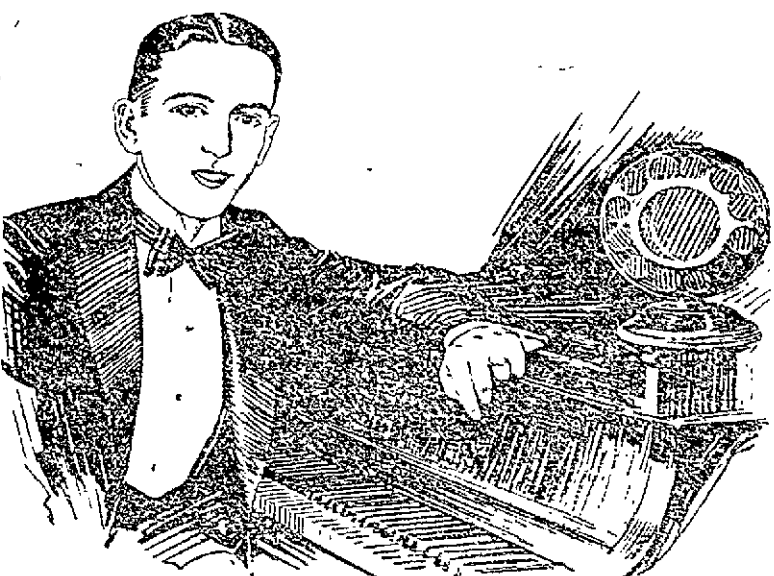

As a matter of fact, Coffee for Home use costs you just about 1 1/2 cents per cup and this cost is only 1-20 or 1-10 of the total cost of the average meal, that isn't very much, is it?

Our Sherman House Coffee will make more cups per pound than the average coffee, giving you a better coffee and also reducing the price per cup.

Kiss Is Not Always Sign Of Affection

Kisses are the milestones of a woman's life.

First of all, there is the maternal kiss that she gives her doll-babies at the age of five.

Then there is the kiss of innocence that she has for her first beau.

And the 18 karat kiss that she keeps for the man she marries.

Then there is the kind of kiss she gives her women friends. It is a flag of truce.

And the end of the cycle is the maternal kiss again for her baby!

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Dear Miss Grey: I went out to dinner at a hotel restaurant the other night with my fiancé. He ordered steak and broasting potatoes, and I picked up the shoe string potatoes and ate them with my fingers as I always had done. He hurt my feelings by laughing at me. Wasn't he in the wrong?—Fau

He was much more impolite in laughing at you than you were by eating the potatoes with your fingers. This is an old custom that went out of style several years ago when the fashion of eating asparagus tips with the fingers went out, too. A fork is the proper implement, nowadays.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a man of 22, and I do not yet earn enough money to support a wife. My girl wants to get married and keep on working. What do you advise her to do?—Shank

I advise her to wait until you have proved that you can earn enough money to take care of a family. You have no right to let the girl marry you unless you can take care of her.

Dear Miss Grey: My daughter has told me that she is about to be come a mother. The most terrible part of the affair is that the man in the case is a good for nothing. I would almost rather see my girl in her coffin than married to him. Don't you think the only thing for her to do is to marry him and then leave him after the child is born?—Heartsick

No, I don't. The child needs its father just as it does its mother. And it may be the making of your daughter's future. A husband to have a child to support.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a married man. I work hard at my job, and I get my own breakfast, pack my lunch, and do my breakfast dishes while my wife sleeps every morning. Then at night when I'm tired, she expects me to do the supper dishes, too. Don't you agree with me that it's her place to do them?—J. N.

I certainly do agree with you. And I think besides that you are spoiling your wife by getting your own breakfast, etc., in the morning. Only one husband in about ten thousand ever does this. You might tell her so.

Dear Miss Grey: I have a great many boy friends but none of them is in love with me. All the other girls I know get an occasional kiss at least. I am popular and that's the end of it. Why do you think this is so?—Emmy Lou

It's just possible that you are the nice, sensible sort of girl that the boys respect. And I can't imagine why you mourn because you aren't petted. It's no compliment to a girl to kiss her, you know, unless there's real love behind the kiss.

Dear Miss Grey: What is the color used for a girl baby, and what for a boy?—Mother

Pale pink for a boy, and baby-blue for a girl.

LETTER FROM SALLY AHER-
TON TO BEATRICE SIMPERS,
CONTINUED

Leslie left little Jack here and I am sure that the only communication Mr. Prescott had from her was when she wired for him to send the baby on to her in care of Sara.

I expect, however, that everything is made up between them now for Mr. Prescott has already sent in his resignation and he has offered me a splendid position at the steel plant. I shall have full charge of the stock promotion and advertising. It is the same job Sam had with Mr. Hamilton so you see I know a great deal about it already.

For the first time in my life I will be able to run a big department just as I wish and as the pay is even larger than it was when Sam had it, I think I can say I have proved myself a successful business woman if not a successful wife.

I sometimes wonder, Bee, if one can be both.

How are you getting along out there among the super-Bohemians? I am smiling as I ask this question, for of all queer places for you to settle down in, the picture capital is the queerest—if all they say of it be true.

I saw Paula Perrier's latest picture the other night, and I want to tell you how interested I am in her. She was much better than the story, which was "piffle." Does Miss Perrier always have that sadness lurking in her eyes?

I would very much like to hear her story—her real story—not the flub dub that is written about her by her press agent. She certainly can plumb depths of emotion that those bits of fluff we usually see on the screen only just skim. You literally see the working of her mind and the throbbing of her heart. Tell me about her. I am interested.

Leslie's friend Ruth Ellington is here and seems very happy with her new husband, Walter Burke.

It is rather strange to find that I who seldom like women am so interested in these two women who do not like me. I never saw Miss Perrier but once and then she glared at me from those great eyes of hers in a way that made me think that she would like to murder me, or at least send me to some distant prison for life.

Mrs. Burke never sees me if she can help it. However, I have found that my liking of people can never be reasoned out. I like them or dislike them regardless of how they treat me.

By the way, Bee, did I ever talk or write to you about a young man a cousin of Sam's, who was uncommonly kind to both of us when Sam was recovering his eyesight? Work him first, went back to work this chap, Jimmie Condon, was Sam's secretary.

For a while he thought he was in love with me. You see I was that inevitable older woman to whom he gave the usual boy's first adoration. I tried honestly I tried, to be kind to him. I wanted to make him into something that another and younger woman might love and be happy with, for I have always thought that the woman a boy first falls in love with is the one who most unerringly shapes his life.

I do not like, however, to think this is true for I certainly do not want to be blamed for what has just happened.

Adventures Of The Twins

GRANDPA FROG'S SPRING SUIT

"Dear me!" said Mister Rubadub of Scub Up Land.

"What are you 'dear-meing' for?" asked Peg Leg the peddler, who had come with the Twins to this interesting place.

"Well, I guess you would say, 'Dear me,' too if you had to fix up Grandpa Frog for spring," said Mister Rubadub.

"Does he get dirty?" asked Nancy.

"Dirty? Well, as he sleeps all winter right down in the mud at the bottom of Lily Pond I should say he does get dirty. The worst of it is his green coat gets so faded you can't do a thing with it. He has to have a new one every year. I've never been able to fit him yet. Where he gets his spring outfit, I'll never tell you."

"It's as simple as eating chocolate drops," said Peg Leg. "I have green coats to sell. Perhaps I can fit him."

"I hope so," sighed Mister Rubadub. "Listen a minute, I think I hear him coming."

Sure enough—Grandpa Frog's deep voice was calling very plainly. "Rubadub, rubadub, chugaling! Rubadub, chugaling!"

"He's saying how do you in frog language," explained the little fairy man. "Then he called out, 'Come right in,' Grandpa Frog. I'm ever so glad to see you. I hope you had a good winter's sleep and didn't get too thin."

Grandpa frog hopped up quite close. "Not bad! Not bad!" he croaked. "Left me hoarse though! Then he added 'And shabby'."

"Well I have seen you look better," admitted Rubadub. "You clothes hang on you and they are all wrinkled up and yellow. You need a new suit."

"New suit?" agreed Grandpa hoarsely. "Yes I need a new suit."

"Please look over my things," said Peg Leg spreading out his wares. "I've got several nice coats and waistcoats. Would you mind trying them on?"

"Glad to glad to!" croaked Grandpa hopping up and looking the things over. "But I'm afraid they won't fit. But I'll try them on anyway. Never mind taking off my old coat. Just leave it on. I'm afraid I'll catch cold."

Nancy and Nick and Peg Leg started trying coats on the old frog gentleman. They tried on every coat in the little fairy peddler's pack but none of them fitted at all. They were too big or too tight or not the right color or something.

Grandpa's eyes twinkled. "Excuse me," he said. "I'll step around the corner a minute, but I'll be back soon."

And away he hopped.

Mister Rubadub scratched his head. "I can't send him away to the Land Where Spring Is Coming looking like that," he said. "I'll get a scolding from the Fairy Queen if I do."

But before Peg Leg or the Twins had time to answer, back came Grandpa Frog.

And lo and behold he was in a brand new coat of brightest green. The old faded wrinkled one gone entirely. Such a divide you never saw!

"Thank you for your trouble," he said loudly. "But I just happened

Health Hints

WHAT THE BODY NEEDS

For bones and teeth and for aid in digestion and for elimination of poisonous material from the body foods richest in mineral elements, are needed.

Mrs. Mann of Anytown learned that these mineral elements are found largely in milk, vegetables, whole-grain cereals and fruit.

Milk is a tonic is given to supply these mineral elements which should have been in foods.

Milk is the chief source of calcium, or lime as it is sometimes referred to. And unless there is an abundance of milk, or cheese for adults there is grave danger of calcium deficiency.

Doubtless many unaccounted-for headaches, fatigues, nervousness, pains, ailments of all kinds are due to insufficient calcium in the system.

In addition to all these elements Mrs. Mann has learned about, there are at least four vitamins the body needs.

There is vitamin A, vitamin B, vitamin C and the fourth vitamin. This fourth vitamin was discovered in 1923. It prevents rickets.

FASHION HINTS

Madison—Sweeping down the floor with a powerful offense, evading the Appleton guards, and slipping in shot after shot the New Glarus quint sprang the first surprise of the tournament by defeating the fast Appleton team 24-8 in the first game of the tournament. The Appleton men failed to show any team work, and its defense was decidedly weak. Appleton attempted as many shots as the victors, but made only three field goals in the entire game.

The inability of the Appleton men to shoot was the cause of the one-sided defeat. The first quarter ended with New Glarus leading 7-0. Dropping in several free throws and sending the ball through the hoop for a neat field goal the New Glarus men took an early lead which they found little difficulty in keeping throughout the game. Several times the ball rolled out of the basket and prevented the Appleton five from scoring, and they did not count until the beginning of the second quarter, when Kneip tossed a free throw which was quickly followed by a field goal by Bowby.

New Glarus took a spurt and passing the ball through the hoop for a field goal, following with a free throw soon after. Kneip tossed a long basket and Courtney ended the Appleton scoring for the half with a free throw. After a bit of fast floor work and securing a foul was called on Ashman of Appleton and the period ended with Ducrest of New Glarus shooting both of the free throws. New Glarus lead at the end of the half 12-6.

New Glarus opened the second half with a rush and swept the Appleton men off their feet. Feeding Sarbacher, rangy New Glarus forward, the victors piled up the score with three field goals. Appleton fought desperately but could not locate the basket. Time and again they carried the ball past the first line of New Glarus guards. Most of the play was in New Glarus territory during the rest of the third quarter, but the Appleton men failed to score. At the start of the fourth quarter, Courtney dribbled down the floor for a short shot which ended the Appleton scoring for the game. New Glarus piled up its score with Sarbacher tossing three neat baskets and the game ended with New Glarus playing a cunning stalling game which kept the ball from the frantic Appleton men.

SARBACHER STAR OF GAME
The outstanding star of the game was Sarbacher, speedy New Glarus forward. Possessing six field goals and one free throw he led the entire scoring field, and also played a wonderful floor game. The team work of New Glarus was excellent and they showed the result of long and careful coaching. They passed, pivoted, shot and guarded well, and displayed good basketball ability. This surprising defeat of Appleton, which was regarded as a contender for the state title, will place New Glarus in the running for the first honors.

Appleton was decidedly weak in shooting and its floor work was ragged. At times the team showed flashes of real form but these were short lived, and failed to bring the Appleton men any scores. The team was somewhat upset by the large crowd and floor, and after the first game they will likely show a reversal of form and hit a winning stride.

Courtney played brilliant ball for Appleton but met with little success in his attempts at the hoop. His dribbling was lightning fast and the best of the tournament so far.

Appleton will meet River Falls Thursday at 1 o'clock. River Falls did not show any real strength against Beloit and Appleton is hoped to win its second game.

INDIANS STRONGER THAN LAST SEASON ACCORDING TO TRIS

Cleveland's Fighting Leader Expects Team to Finish in First Four

BY BILLY EVANS
Lakeland—Tris Speaker had high hopes for his ball club last season and it disappointed.
If he has pennant thoughts this year he is keeping them to himself. However, he is positive that the Indians of 1925 will be a much stronger combination than last year.
"In the first place I have a much better behaved ball club," explains Speaker. "There were disturbing elements on the club last year that had a far-reaching effect. These have been eliminated."
RESERVE STRENGTH DOUBLED
"The efficiency of my reserve strength has been doubled. I feel that I am reasonably well fortified at every position. This was not the case last year."
While at present I have no outstanding star among the recruits, there are a number of likely prospects who should be helpful before the close of the season.
"I feel that pitching is a concern with every major league manager. I am no different from the rest. My pitching failed me last year and the club collapsed with it."
Despite the fact that the pitching staff will be practically the same, I am sure it will be 100 per cent more effective.
"An injury to Edwards' knee put him out of the running. He appears to have entirely recovered. Uhle, who went five or six innings at top speed only to flatter, is in great shape."
EDWARDS AND UHLE
"I am banking on Edwards and Uhle to win at least 30 more games than they did last year. Add 20 games to the won column of 1924 and take the same number away from the games lost side and you will note a difference in our standing."
The good year Joe Shauts had last season is certain to prove helpful. He will have more confidence in his ability. Sherry Smith is still a great pitcher.
"A winning ball club must have a crack catcher who can be in there most every day. I look for Myatt to be such a backstop this year."
The Indians of 1925 will be a hustling ball club. I have impressed on my players that fact. There is no place for the fellow who doesn't want to go the limit to win.

HOPES FOR BREAKS
"Finally, I hope to get the breaks. We didn't get many last year. Losing clubs seldom do. Winning clubs are hustling clubs. Hustlers often make the breaks. The Washington club is an example of that truth."
Where will the Indians finish? I don't care to get real definite on this subject. However, I will be disappointed if we fail to finish among the first four.
It is just possible that a better morale, improved pitching, greater reserve strength, plus the punch the Indians are known to have, will make Speaker's hopes a reality.

RED'S CHANCES HURT BY INFILDER'S ARM
Orlando — Last season infielder Charley Dreesen of the St. Paul club of the American Association was the sensation of the minor leagues. Losting clubs seldom do. Winning clubs are hustling clubs. Hustlers often make the breaks. The Washington club is an example of that truth.

Here's New Bantam King

Charley (Phil) Rosenberg Gains Crown by Defeating "Canonball" Martin

Here's the new bantamweight champion—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg. Charley came into top honors the other night by handing Editt "Canonball" Martin a decisive trimming over the 16-pound route at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Figured as more or less of an outsider, Rosenberg tore into the chap who had been termed "the second Terry McGovern," and left no doubt as to the winner. Even Martin's staunchest admirers were forced to admit their man had been thoroughly whipped.
Rosenberg is the seventh pugilist to hold the bantam crown since the termination of the World War. Martin became champion by defeating Abe Goldstein last December. Whether Rosenberg can cling to the laurels for more than a limited span remains to be seen.

CASE OF MAYS ONE OF GAME'S MYSTERIES

Apparently "Through" Three Years Ago, Yankee Ace Stars With Reds

BY BILLY EVANS
Orlando—When diving into the mysteries of the national pastime, Pitcher Carl Mays offers a most interesting case for the baseball Sherlock Holmes.
Three years ago Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees decided that Mays was about through as a pitcher. He started in the 1921 world series with the Giants, then appeared to pass out of the picture.
For two seasons he did little more than warm the Yankee bench. He seldom started a game and when he did the breaks invariably went against him.
SEEMED GONE
Mays, who for years had been a pitching sensation in the American League as well as a stormy petrel in that organization, seemed to have lost his fast ball.
The possessor of a great fast ball when at the peak of his game, the loss or apparent loss of his one best bet, made things look bad.
A glutton for work, sitting on the bench, brooding over his game, didn't tend to increase his efficiency or temperament. When pitching his best, Mays always worked every third day, sometimes oftener.
One year ago the New York American League club asked waivers on Mays. Not an American League club claimed him. The waivers were sent to the National and rumor has it that Cincinnati alone put in a bid for his services.

JEKILL-HYDE STUFF
Then came the Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde stuff. Claimed by only one major league club, Mays had one of the best years of his career for the Reds last season.
Today Mays looks in far better shape than he did five years ago when starting for the Yankees. Physically he is in fine line and the season is still weeks away.
Unpleasant working conditions and failure to be used regularly, is the way Mays explains his inability to win his last two years he was in the American League.
"I never could pitch sitting on the bench," says Mays. "I need plenty of work."
DID SPLENDID WORK
"This stuff about him being a bad actor is a big laugh to me. I never had a more willing player on my ball club."
"He not only worked out of turn all season, but was always ready when I needed a pinch-pitcher."
"His fine work last season tended to tide over some of the disappointing features. There is no reason why he shouldn't have another big year."
Mays says he intends to stick around in the big show for at least three more years, maybe five.

COBB WISE IN PICKING VETERAN OSCAR STANAGE
Augusta—Manager Ty Cobb made a wise move when he named Oscar Stanage in charge of the Detroit pitchers.
Stanage, a great catcher and exceedingly popular with the players, is certain to be very helpful to the Tiger manager in "prepping" his staff of twirlers.
In addition, Stanage is still a very capable backstop and can be pressed into service if necessary. Last season he caught 100 games for Toronto in the International League.
Of the Detroit recruits, Stanage is loud in the praises of Jesse Doyle. He has the stuff and is smart, according to Oscar.
Stanage also regards Bill Moore, purchased from Rochester, N. Y., as a fine prospect. Moore is only 22 and lacks the polish and experience of Doyle.

JAEGER PICKED TO HANDLE BAY FIGHT

DePere Battler and Fighting Parson Arrive in Green Bay by Thursday

Green Bay—Dauber Jaeger, one of the best known ring officials in Wisconsin will referee the Nuss-Conley bout at the Park Armory on Friday night. The boxing club moguls made this choice after negotiations with the state commission. Otto Tonne will work the other three scraps on the card.
Jaeger doesn't stand for any monkeying in the ring. Several times, he has halted hostilities when he thought boxers were laying down and not so.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.
Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 50c. adv.

long ago, he emerged successful after an affair with the Mitchell family in Milwaukee. Jaeger used to swing a mean punch himself but that was in the days of old. He is now living in Fond du Lac and his service as a fistie referee are in great demand.
SOON TO ARRIVE
By Thursday night the fighters on Friday night's great card will begin "checking in." Jimmy Nuss is expected most any time while Roy Conley will "come home" on Thursday. Both Wyeko and Webber, the boys in the semi-finals plan to complete their training here.
In the meantime, tickets are selling like hot cakes for the fight. Green Bay and De Pere fight followers are buying the pasteboards in great numbers.
Kansas City, Mo.—Wayne Munn, world's heavyweight champion wrestler has received an offer of $100,000 for a three months exhibition tour of Europe his manager said.

Lowman Working For Strong Ball Squad At State University

Badgers Face Hard Schedule of 22 Games, Including Ohio and Michigan, in 1925 Title Race

Madison—Coach Guy Lowman of Wisconsin's varsity baseball team is building an infield these days.

Having worked for several weeks to bring out the best in his pitchers and catchers and having lined up his most promising outfielders, the veteran diamond mentor, assisted by Irvin Uteritz, devoted most of his practice session Wednesday to infield candidates.

Lloyd Larson, heaving hitting catcher and outfielder, was shifted to first base, although he did not perform so nobly as he had been seriously considered for the berth at the initial sack, as he clouts harder than either Steen or Fouchtewanger, the other first basemen, and he has had considerable baseball experience.

Second base is being taken care of by Donogon, McAlpin, and Janssen. All three men have prospects of developing into good players. Donogon is an excellent all-around performer, being a good batter and fielder. McAlpin is one of the best fielders on the team, but is a weaker hitter. He played with the squad last year, substituting at second. Janssen is a new man this year, and has been showing up well in practice.

ELLINGSON PLAYS SHORT
Shortstop will be handled by Captain Ellingson. He is a veteran of two years, and is rated as one of the best shortstops in the Western conference. A superb fielder and a steady hitter, Ellingson will strengthen the squad materially. Wieland will probably substitute for Ellingson. "Suede" is but little weaker at the shortstop position; he bats well and should develop into a good fielder.

Third base is being handled by Tangen, veteran of last year's team, and Martell, a member of the freshman baseball team last year. Tangen was the leading hitter of the 1924 squad, and is a good lefthand man. Martell showed well in last night's practice session, and has an excellent understanding for Tangen, if the latter gets the call when the season starts.

BATTERIES STRONGER
The batteries which seemed so weak at the beginning of the year appear to be gradually strengthening. Both Barnum and Simpson have been finished, and the receiving staff has been materially strengthened. Wold, Schmitt, and Lamboley are the other catchers. Lustig, Clausen, Stoll, Shrenk, Edwards, Galle, Freck, and Shapiro are the leading pitching candidates.

GO SOUTH APR. 3
The Badgers will leave on the southern train Apr. 3 and will meet St. Louis university at St. Louis Apr. 4, University of Missouri at Oxford Apr. 6 and 7, Mississippi college at Jackson, Miss., Apr. 8 and 9; Mississippi A and M at Starkville Apr. 10 and 11. Union college at Jackson, Tenn., Apr. 13, and then on the way home the first conference game will be played with Northwestern at Evanston Apr. 14. The first home game at Camp Randall is scheduled for Apr. 25 with Illinois.

Wisconsin was third in the conference standings last season with Ohio and Michigan tied for the championship. Wisconsin has arranged games with both of the 1924 conference leaders. Ohio and Michigan will have strong teams again this spring. Eight lettermen are back at Ohio. The Buckeyes' greatest loss was in the graduation of Workman, veteran pitcher. Michigan lost only two: Kinko, fielder, and Blott, catcher. The entire Wolverine infield remains intact. Ahlbornski, star pitcher, has also reported.

The schedule:
Apr. 4-11—Southern training trip.
Apr. 14—Northwestern at Evanston.
Apr. 18—Preliminary at Madison.
Apr. 25—Illinois at Madison.
May 2—Ohio State at Columbus.
May 4—Michigan at Ann Arbor.
May 9—Michigan at Madison.
May 12—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
May 16—Northwestern at Madison.
May 23—Chicago at Chicago.
May 25—Illinois at Urbana.
May 29—Minnesota at Madison.
June 1—Mississippi at Madison.
June 2—Mississippi at Madison.
June 6—Chicago at Madison.

TWO BIG TEN CAGE STARS COMPLETE COURT CAREERS

Two of the best forwards developed in Western Conference circles in seasons closed their collegiate basketball careers this campaign. Johnny Minor of Ohio State was one and George Haggerty, Michigan, the other. Each was a star of the highest magnitude in all departments of the past season.

SANGOR AND SARMIENTO IN MILWAUKEE BOUT APRIL 13

Milwaukee—Joey Sangor of Milwaukee, and Pete Sarmiento of New York have been matched for a ten round no-decision bout here April 13. The boys will weigh in at 123 pounds at 3 p. m., the day of the match.

JOHNSON STUCK IN MUD, FORCED TO POSTPONE SCRAP

Hurley — Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, came to grief near Glidden Tuesday while enroute to Hurley on his barnstorming wrestling trip and got stuck in the mud with his automobile. He postponed Tuesday night's engagement here to Thursday evening.

BADGERS PICKED AS DANGEROUS RIVALS AT DRAKE RELAY MEET

Steve Farrell's Maize and Blue Squad Expected to Make Great Showing

Des Moines, Ia.—By winning the western conference championship at the indoor meet at Evanston recently, the Michigan university track squad demonstrated clearly that the Wolverines will be among the strongest contenders for first honors at the sixteenth annual Drake university relay meet, to be staged in the stadium here, on April 24 and 25.

Des Moines, Ia.—By winning the western conference championship at the indoor meet at Evanston recently, the Michigan university track squad demonstrated clearly that the Wolverines will be among the strongest contenders for first honors at the sixteenth annual Drake university relay meet, to be staged in the stadium here, on April 24 and 25.

DASH EVENTS EVEN
McAndrews of Wisconsin and Wittman of Michigan are mighty evenly matched for the dashes, while De Hart Hubbard, Michigan's dusky flash, is conceded by dopsters to have a good chance to win the century dash here next month.

Kinsey, Olympic high hurdle champion and winner of his event at the Drake meet last year, will face some tough competition this season, in Guthrie and Snyder of Ohio State, both of whom nosed out the Illinois star at the western conference meet. However, Kinsey should develop form rapidly in coming weeks, as he only recently became eligible again for intercollegiate competition and is not yet in the best of form.

Keeble of Missouri, and Weir of Nebraska, also must be figured in the running when it comes to doping out probable winners in the high, slicks event here.
HIGH JUMP IS BATTLE
McGinnis of Wisconsin, and Russell of Chicago, should furnish a great battle for premier honors in the high jump. Bouscher of Northwestern, should give McKowan of the Kansas State Teachers college a run for his money in the pole vault. McKowan—won that event here last year with a hop of thirteen feet. Bouscher has an indoor mark of 12 feet 4 inches this year, and is showing steady improvement.

BRAVES WHIP GIANTS AS JUDGE LANDIS LOOKS ON

New York—Former Giants led the Boston Braves to a 7-6 victory over the present day squad of McGraw at St. Petersburg Wednesday. Rube Marquard and Jess Barnes pitched for the Braves, the latter permitting but two hits in five innings. The victory came despite a triple play on the part of E. H. Muir, Travis Jackson and Frank Felsch, staged in the presence of Commissioner Landis. Meanwhile in another part of town the Yankees broke camp, ready to start on the long trail that leads to the Bronx stadium. Monroe Schwartz, a pitcher who has had little opportunity to show his worth because of a sore arm, has been sent to his Ohio home and will be tried later in the season.

The Senators indulged in slugging and left the Dodgers of Brooklyn far behind, 16 to 2. Earl Neely, Joe Judge and Oscar Bluege made home runs while Charlie Hargreaves and Johnny Mitchell accounted for five of the seven Brooklyn hits.

TUNNEY RESTS BEFORE BOUT WITH HARRY GREB

St. Paul, Minn.—Gene Tunney, American lightweight boxing champion, rested Thursday after several days of strenuous training for his bout here Friday with Harry Greb, middleweight champion. Greb continued his training and went through his usual workout.

RUTH PLAYS WITH MACKS AGAINST MILWAUKEE TEAM

By Associated Press
Philadelphia — Babe Ruth, home run slugger of the New York Yankees played left field for Connie Mack's Athletics in an exhibition game against Milwaukee Wednesday at Fort Myers, Fla., but the Bambino's hitting did not figure in the Athletics' 5-4 victory. The Babe whaled the ball three times, but the best he could get was three infield grounders, which were easy outs. On his other trip to the plate he was passed and scored on Hauser's triple. About 5,000 fans witnessed the game. The Philadelphia Nationals nosed out the Columbus American Association at Brantford, Ont. Wednesday, 4-3. All the Ohio Senators' runs were made in the ninth inning off Mitchell and Descheger.

Los Angeles, Calif.—George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight, challenged Harry Wills, Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons in a telegram to the New York State Athletic commission.

BUD GORMAN SIGNS WITH GENE TUNNEY

Former Menasha and Racine Heavyweight Trains Under Former Buddy

Racine—Anxious to make some more shekels and to establish a name for himself in the prize ring, Bud Gorman, former local heavyweight butler, has made another shift in the managerial position and has signed up Gene Tunney as his new pilot. If Gorman gets seriously down to hard work under the tutelage of the noted Tunney he should figure in some important fights. Gene knows a lot of good men to match Gorman up with. It is understood that Bud is spending duty with Tunney who is scheduled to step ten rounds with Harry Greb at the Auditorium in St. Paul, March 27. Tunney is impressed with the work of Gorman and he has been forced to do some clever work in order to dodge the blows Gorman slips over in the sparring melees.

In a letter to one of his old pals here Gorman declares he is getting down to the proper aim and he expects to do some extensive fighting now that he is under Tunney's wing.

Gorman rose to the fighting ring at Menasha before the war, taking on several good heavies, but attained most of his fame when he came back from France and took up quarters at Racine. He was a buddy of Tunney, American light heavyweight champ, across the water. Upon his return to this country he fought many first-rate heavies and at one time held the heavyweight championship of the American Legion. He is noted for his deadly wallop. He has been a sparring partner of both Tommy Gibbons and Gene Tunney. Gorman worked on Gibbons' staff when Tommy was training for the Dempsey fight at Shelby, and heard lots of praise from the challenger for his heavy punching. Appleton fans will best remember him through two bouts. His best Soldier Smith, another star of Uncle Sam's forces, here last year and later dropped George Hills for the count in 20 seconds at Green Bay in George's only attempt to become a boxer.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Well, it's all over now. The biggest dark horse in years dropped the local hopes in the first game of a day of upsets and the valley will have to look to Christopher's boys to keep its ray of hope from falling below third in a state meet in 12 years. To complete a day of upsets, Eau Claire trimmed Superior and even Neenah had a hard fight. Well, such is life and we look for some wonderful scraps in the secondary series now.

Appleton should show the old scrap now and go through to third place. But even though the Orange look bad in defeat we would like to pick New Glarus as a semifinalist. Any team that beats the local gang 24 to 8, even though the play was ragged, with Cliff in, can be rated as a contender. Holding Ashman, Kneip, Dowdy and Courtney to three field goals is not stuff in any game.

We picked five winners in eight games in our first attempt, which wasn't so bad considering the upset in the dope bucket, but oh, that first one! With such luck we can try anything so here goes for the second day winners. Appleton to beat River Falls. Superior to beat Bloomer. Manitowish to beat Tomahawk. Wisconsin Rapids to beat Montfort. New Glarus to beat Beloit. Shawano to beat Eau Claire. La Crosse to beat Watertown. Neenah to beat Waukesha.

We take great pleasure in presenting our first two contributions although it hurts. But this column was promised as a refuge for use and abuse. All contris will receive the honor medal next Christmas so pep it up.

Dot-Dash, Dave! Dumb Dora complains that Appleton's defeat at the hands of New Glarus was a "glaring" tragedy. Possibly the Orange boys will have a new glare in their eyes now.

—Dora's Brother.

D. D. D.—With Appleton eliminated from the championship contenders, we'll all have to pull for Neenah. Possibly the Milwaukee Sentinel was right after all in that headline about Neenah representing the Fox River valley.

—M. R. H.

Fred Morris in an article to Roundy picked Neenah as the champ and Shawano and Appleton for runner-up contenders, considering the weakened condition of the Orange squad. We always knew Fred had a head on his shoulders—watch and see how close he comes.

CURRY OUT OF LUCK WHEN X-RAY FAILS TO SHOW BREAK

Milwaukee—The Wisconsin Boxing commission announced Wednesday that X-ray pictures of Connie Curry's right hand which he said, was broken in the first round of his match with Tolo Sarmiento here Monday night, failed to show a fracture. Curry's end of the nurse was ordered withheld by the commission and it is probable that a certain portion of the amount will be paid the Sioux City boy for the five rounds he boxed with Sarmiento.

Los Angeles — Miss Mary K. Browne former women's southern California golf champion, advanced to the semi-finals in the title tournament.

NEENAH SWEEPS THRU RAPIDS TO WIN FIRST GAME

Christoph Men Put Up Great Battle When They Throw Off Stage Fright

Special to the Post-Crescent
Madison — After a slow start the Neenah quintet found themselves in the second period, and forming a powerful offense, and maintaining a tight defense swept through to a 17 to 11 victory in the last game of the first round of the tournament. Neenah was a bit stage struck at the start of the game, but as the fright wore off they started a real scoring machine which tossed the winning field goals in one of the most exciting games of the first day of the tournament.

Ship, speedy forward, was easily the star of the offense and his speedy work was a real sight. He tossed three field goals and a free throw putting his team in the lead at the start of the fourth quarter. The game was a see-saw contest from start to finish and neither team was ahead by more than two points until the end of the game.

SIEVERT FAILS TO GET ENOUGH VOTES TO BE NOMINATED

Jens Will Be Without Opposition as Candidate for Sixth Ward Supervisor

Fred Sievert, whose name was written in on eight ballots as a candidate for supervisor from the Sixth ward, failed to receive a sufficient number of votes to place his name on the official April election ballot, the council ruled at a meeting Wednesday night. It was found that 21 votes were necessary to place Sievert in nomination. The law requires that a candidate whose name is written on the ballot must receive at least a percentage of the number of votes cast for supervisor in the district at the last previous election. Mr. Jens polled more than 700 votes a year ago.

Fifteen candidates were declared nominated in the primary and their names will be placed on the official ballots. They are:

First Ward
Aldermen—Mark S. Catlin, Howell C. Thomas
Supervisor—L. F. Bushey

Second Ward
Aldermen—Piney Earl, William Egert
Supervisor—Patrick H. Ryan

Third Ward
Aldermen—Francis X. Bachman, Charles W. Smith
Supervisor—Joseph Bayer, William F. Otto

Fourth Ward
Aldermen—Robert F. McGillan, John C. Hamel
Supervisor—George C. Dams, John Tracy

Fifth Ward
Aldermen—Charles Foss, E. R. Radchow
Supervisor—John Kohl, Jr., Peter Rademacher

Sixth Ward
Aldermen—J. H. Fiedler, Herman B. Beske
Supervisor—Louis Jens

After referring a number of matters to the committee of the whole, the council heard the arguments of the representatives of paving companies who present the merits of asphalt and concrete as paving material. The debate that developed between two of the principal agents threatened to become violent, when contractors took sides with the concrete and asphalt men, but after more than an hour of discussion the rival bidders concluded their arguments and the council proceeded with its regular business.

George T. Richards, alderman from the Third ward, voiced the objection of his constituents to the wide raised curbs planned at street intersections where the new pavements are to be installed. Mr. Richards said this would necessitate the moving of catchbasins, mailboxes, telephone poles and the cutting down of trees at considerable expense to the taxpayers. Furthermore, he said widening the streets at their intersections would expose pedestrians and especially school children to added danger in crossing roadways crowded with automobiles and other vehicles. The Third ward alderman said unless this plan is changed he would refuse to support the paving program.

With practically no argument this matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

In connection with the discussions on paving, Louis J. Marshall, acting as spokesman for property owners on Richmond-st from College-ave to Wisconsin-ave, demanded that concrete pavement be installed.

Mr. Marshall was told that the time for presenting his petition would come after benefits and damages on the property along Richmond-st had been assessed and the findings of the board of public works posted, which would be early in April.

Routine Business
Routine business occupied the time of Appleton Trades and Labor council in the regular bi-weekly meeting Wednesday evening. The meeting was held at 7:30 P. M. in Trades and Labor hall.

DO YOU CLEAN HOUSE SYSTEMATICALLY?

Housecleaning need not be the bugbear it has long been regarded in many households. If the work is carefully planned if the kind of furnishings that are easy to keep clean are chosen and handled in the right way, and if provision is made for keeping all the dirt possible out of the house, there will be no need for the upheavals that result in discomfort to the entire household.

How to make this task simpler and easier is discussed in a booklet which this bureau has for free distribution. Any reader can secure a copy of this Government publication by filling out and mailing the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage.

RAISE WALLS OF CANAL TO PREVENT DAMAGE BY FLOODS

Government Workmen Have Nearly Completed Work Started Over Year Ago

The work of raising the walls and gates of Menasha lock and the banks of the government canal more than two years which has been in progress since last September is practically completed. About all that remains to be done is to level some filling on the bank of the canal just above the lock. This will be done as soon as the frost is out of the ground. The banks of what is known as the basin of the canal and in which there is at present four scores and a large has been raised more than three feet in places and the filling is from 10 to 20 feet in width. The basin is triangular and is immediately above the lock. The carpenter work on the lock, which has been going on the greater part of the winter has just been completed and repairs also have been made to the locks.

The filling was secured in the channel below the lock with the aid of a dredge which was engaged in the work for several weeks. The earth was loaded on scows and taken through the lock and was unloaded on the bank of the canal by a second dredge. One of these dredges the Omro, wintered at the government dock in Menasha and too other, the DePere, was taken to Kaukauna last fall before the close of navigation.

The dredges and all the scows, barges, timber, cement, mowers and machinery used in construction work are to be taken to DePere as soon as navigation opens which will be about the middle of April. Improvements are to be made to the DePere dam, but just what they will be have not been announced.

The office building used by George T. Allenson locktender, has been moved from the middle of the lock.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 334 L. Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

BUT—the whole secret of changing one's silhouette is bringing one's CORSET up-to-date.

REDFERN WRAP-AROUNDS, designed for every possible type of figure, assure the present-day silhouette. By correctly distributing your flesh, they give you immediately the expanded waist, the flat back, the subdued hips and thighs and the absence of "bulge" at the diaphragm that interfere with the success of the new frocks.

And in addition to these reforms in appearance, a REDFERN means unbelievably luxurious comfort.
